WAR-LORDS OF THE PRESS.

JUSTICE TWIXT NATIONS.

LYTTON APPEAL.

("Telegraph" Special).

Shanghai, Mar. 18.

The Earl of Lytton delivered another striking peace speech at a tiffin given in honour of the League of Nations Manchuria Commission by the Chinese Press Association.

Lord Lytton said that they had all heard of the war-lords in Japan and of the war-lords in China, but no war-lords exercised the power possessed by the war-lords of the Press.

He appealed to the Press to regard the League Commission as "planters" and express the hope that the Press would make fruitful soil in which their seeds were planted.

RECIPROCAL.

Referring to China's declaration that she asked nothing less than justice, Lord Lytton pointed out that an atmosphere of justice could not be secured by one nation passing judgment upon another.

Justice between States was a reciprocal relationship. It could only be secured by reconciling, if possible, the needs and interests of all States in relationship with each other.—Reuter.

WAR ZONE VISIT.

Shanghai, Mar. 18, 10.35 a.m.

Mr. Wellington Koo and Mr. Yoshida, the Chinese and Japanese Ambassadors, are making arrangements for the Commission to visit the Shanghai war areas.

The visit will probably take place on Monday.

Mr. Wellington Koo has suggested that the members of the Commission should visit Chapei, Kiangnan, and Woosung. Mr. Yoshida stated that the Japanese military authorities would superintend the safety of the visiting party.—Reuter.

DARTMOOR MEN FIND TRIAL AMUSING.

DISCOMFITURE OF WARDER.

London, Mar. 17.

Bursts of laughter from the thirty-two Dartmoor convicts charged in connection with the recent mutiny with offences under the Malicious Damage Act, punctuated the police-court proceedings at Princetown Town Hall to-day.

Loud guffaws echoed through the court when a warder named Udy spoke of a convict named "Arthur," who is known to the convicts as "Horthur."

A renewed outburst heralded Udy's bewilderment as to the difference between a "fire" and a "conflagration." The convicts seemed to be in high good humour throughout the hearing.—Reuter.

DOLLAR AGAIN DECLINES.

SLIGHT DROP THIS MORNING.

Opening the same as yesterday, the Hongkong dollar dropped 1/8th in the course of the forenoon, the rate being 1s. 9 3/4d. The local market is uncertain, with very little business doing.

London reported a drop of 1/8th in silver prices, both spot and forward. China bought and sold, and America bought at the decline. The market ruled quiet.

In New York, silver dropped 1/8th, with the market dull.

HINTS OF ACUTE CONTROVERSY IN SHANGHAI.

THREE MAIN POINTS.

JAPAN DESIRES SAFEGUARDS.

UNDERSTANDING HOPED FOR.

(Our Own Correspondent).

Shanghai, Mar. 18, 11.33 a.m.

WHILE IT IS HINTED that points of acute controversy have arisen between the Chinese and Japanese representatives at the informal peace negotiations now proceeding, an early understanding is hoped for.

Three main points have already been agreed though the terms of agreements on these points differs slightly according to the source of information.

I learn from reliable sources that the points of agreement thus far reached involve

(1) that the Chinese troops must remain in the position they occupy at present, namely, outside the twenty-kilometre zone, and at the same time, the Japanese will retire from the area which they have occupied.

SAFEGUARDS.

(2) that the evacuated areas be policed and administered by the Chinese authorities, with certain definite safeguards.

(3) that a joint Sino-Japanese Commission be appointed for the purpose of supervising the withdrawal of the Japanese forces and the non-advance of the Chinese forces.

The Commission will have the assistance of neutral representatives and will observe and report upon the progress of the withdrawal of the Japanese forces, at the same time keeping a watch upon the administration of the evacuated area.

GENEVA ADJOURNS.

London, Mar. 17.

After some discussion regarding the situation in Shanghai, the League Assembly's Committee of Nineteen, which met at Geneva this afternoon, decided, in view of the present state of the negotiations being conducted at Shanghai, to adjourn and to be called again only in the case of an emergency.

Questioned in the House of Commons concerning the steps taken in Shanghai to carry out the proposals contained in the resolution of the League Assembly, the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, said that during the last day or two, on the invitation of Sir Miles Lampson, the Chinese and Japanese representatives at Shanghai had been meeting with Sir Miles and the representatives of Italy, France and United States.

HOPEFUL PROGRESS.

His information was that these conversations had made some hopeful progress, though they had also indicated some difficulties. The Assembly Committee was meeting again to-day and sincerely hoped that with the help of the good offices of the representatives of the four Powers, a definite result might be achieved and announced very shortly.

At the moment, however, it is impossible to speak with complete confidence, and he desired not to prejudice the chance of a final agreement by a statement regarding the points of controversy.—British Wireless.

KWANGSI REDS ACTIVE.

Wuchow, Mar. 15.

A reliable report just received from the western part of Kwangsi Province states that a large body of Reds is still active in the Red River Valley in spite of the Nazi storm-troops on parade. Hitler is issuing instructions, following alleged terrorism by the Prussian Minister of the Interior, which may lead to serious developments during the elections to the Prussian Diet.

HITLER WARNS SEVERING.

TERRORISATION ALLEGED.

PREPARED FOR BATTLE.

Munich, Mar. 17.

Herr Hitler has informed Herr Severing, the Minister of the Interior of the Prussian Government, that he may have war if he desire it.

According to the Nazi leader, the Prussian Government, under the direction of Herr Severing, has been pursuing a ruthless campaign against the Nazis, but he says, the "election manoeuvre" will not save Severing's party from inevitable defeat in the elections to the Prussian Diet next month.

Forty Killed.

Forty members of the Nazi "storm-troops" have been killed in the streets and thousands of others assaulted and injured in the last few weeks, alleges Hitler in the course of his vigorous protest against the methods of the Minister of the Interior in regard to the Nazi Party's electioneering campaign.

He complains that a search of all Nazi offices is being carried out all over Prussia under the orders of Herr Severing, and Hitler further contends that the Nazis have been the victims of deliberate violence and terrorism by their political opponents.

Battle Instructions.

For this reason, he adds, the Nazi storm-troops when the date of the election draws near, will be ordered to be prepared in anticipation of political attacks, but the substance of these instructions will be submitted to the approval of the Minister of the Interior of the Reich a week before their despatch.—Reuter.

London, Mar. 17.

For the first time since his long illness, Mr. Lloyd George attended the House of Commons to-day when he took the Oath and signed the Roll.

HOTEL COMPANY'S PROJECTS.

IMPROVEMENT IDEA FOR PEAK.

BIG SHANGHAI OFFER REFUSED.

POPULAR BUSES.

Reasons for the proposed increase of capital by the Hongkong and Shanghai Hotels, Ltd., were explained by Mr. J. H. Taggart when presiding at the annual meeting of shareholders this morning. Chiefly, he said, the Board had in mind the desirability of reconditioning and developing certain of the Company's properties without recourse to secured borrowing, and among other works in this direction under consideration was the reconstruction of the Peak Hotel.

It was highly improbable, he said, that a complete scheme of reconstruction will be undertaken at this juncture, as it would necessitate a complete evacuation of the existing building, involving a total loss of revenue. Rather is the Board inclined to the view that improvements can be effected as opportunity permits, with a resulting degree of modernisation commensurate with the extremely reasonable rates charged.

Consideration would shortly have to be given to a scheme for the extension and development of the Happy Valley garage property, while further requirements in connexion with property in Shanghai must not be lost sight of.

Chairman's Speech.

After reading the auditors' report, the Chairman said:—Dealing with the Profit & Loss Account, I am pleased to be able to call your attention to the substantial increase in amount, compared with the previous year, of the "Balance of Working Account," brought to credit in the sum of $1,750,383.45. The preceding year's working produced $1,295,439.35 under this heading, and the increase of $454,944.00, displayed this year should, I feel, evoke satisfaction having regard to the fact that operations over the last financial year did not embody a normal volume of transient tourist patronage, due to the somewhat stringent financial conditions which prevailed in Europe and the U.S.A. Nevertheless your establishments both in Hongkong and Shanghai experienced business during the year of a volume sufficient to enable Hotels, without exception, to provide the General Working Accounts with a much increased quota of profit.

With regard to the item of $68,798.47, "Dividend on Investments," this income has been derived from the Company's holding of shares in the Grand Hotel des Wagons-Lits, Limited, and, in a measure, reflects the period of (Continued on Page 7.)

THE BOAT RACE OUTLOOK.

AN EARNEST BUSINESS.

(Reuter's Special Service).

London, Mar. 17.

Judged by the lack of the usual "beauty contests" and the absence of the customary humorous pre-stunting on the Boat Race personnel, Saturday's contest will be the most serious for many years. All attempts to pre-empt the result of the race from the work-outs of the crews incline as usual to the Light Blues.

The Cambridge crew to-day watched Oxford do one of their smartest bits of rowing. Chadwyck-Healey, the Oxford stroke going all out for two minutes, at 38 in the first and 35 in the second.

Cambridge followed with a minute and a half, doing 34 in the first minute and 16 in the remaining thirty seconds.

The great race starts at 10.20 a.m. owing to the fact that high tide at Putney is at 11.54 a.m.

NEW REDUCTION IN BANK RATE.

WELCOME SURPRISE FOR CITY.

London, Mar. 17. The City to-day received a welcome surprise when a further reduction of the bank rate, the third within the month was announced.

The rate was reduced a week ago from five to four per cent. To-day it came down to three and a half per cent.

The rate is now back to the level of July last year, before the monetary disturbances were beginning to be seriously felt.

To-day's reduction was enthusiastically received and was considered as a further welcome move to help the trade recovery. Coming so soon after the announcement of the Treasury's $116 million conversion offer to Treasury Bondholders, the reduced bank rate naturally stimulated the who's market for gilt-edged stocks and a cheerful tone developed in other sections of the exchange.—British Wireless.

IMMIGRATION IN U.S.A.

PROPOSED FURTHER QUOTA CUTS.

Washington, Mar. 17.

A resolution for the reduction of the immigration quotas by ten per cent, and placing countries in the Western Hemisphere on a quota basis, restricting by ten per cent, the visas issued in 1930, was received favourably by the House of Representatives Migration Committee to-day.—Reuter.

GRAND NATIONAL HARD GOING.

DRYEST COURSE IN MEMORY.

FAVOURABLE TO GRAKLE.

(Reuter's Special Service).

London, Mar. 17.

Mr. Winston Churchill lands at Plymouth from the United States to-night and immediately takes train for Liverpool to witness the Grand National.

Thirty-seven horses will breast the tapes on the dryest course in living memory, but this is considered to favour last year's winner, Grakle, who does not mind if Aintree's stern test, comprising thirty-two fences, is like a road-way.

It is important to note, however, that not since 1870 has the same horse won the Race in two successive years.

Grakle is in very fine form just now and his trainer is bubbling over with confidence.

"MYSTERY" MAN OF THREADNEEDLE ST.

London, Mar. 17.

Mr. Montagu Norman, the Governor of the Bank of England, was congratulated at the half-yearly General Court to-day on his thirteenth nomination to the post. Mr. Norman said that the profits for the half-year ended February 29th, after making provisions for all contingencies, were £627,201, making the amount of the rest in that day, £3,671,430.

After providing for a dividend of six per cent, less income tax, etc., the rest would be £3,061,545.—British Wireless.

The late Mr. Dymond intended to return to a home short. He was associated with the Rev. Sam Pollard in the foundation of the Methodist Mission in Hongkong.

WAR DEBTS ISSUE.

STRONG FEELING IN U.S.A.

Storm at Mild Hint of Revision.

Washington, Mar. 17.

Newspaper reports that Mr. Andrew Mellon, newly-appointed American Ambassador to Britain, will shortly open negotiations for the revision of the British war debt, has provoked a warning by Senator Robinson, the Democrat leader, that the United States Government must regard the problem from the standpoint of the American taxpayer rather than that of the British.

Senator Robinson bases his warning on a story attributing to Mr. Mellon the view that Britain faces undue hardship owing to her depreciated currency.

Robinson.

One of Penalties.

Senator Robinson argues that countries with depreciated currency have obtained a great advantage in foreign commerce, though one of the penalties is that they must meet their debt payments on a gold basis.

On behalf of President Hoover, Senator Reed to-day denied that the revision of the British Debt was under consideration.—Reuter.

The Armstrong Disclosures.

Great interest has been aroused by a letter published in the Morning Post drawing attention to the spirit in which the United States war loans to the Allies were granted in 1917.

The letter was written by Sir Harry Gloster Armstrong, who was British Consul-General in New York for eleven years after the war. In it he pointed out that the loans were at first regarded in Washington as going to help win "America's war."

Reference to the Congressional Record of the period—the American "Hansard"—and to other documents shows that the quotations from the speeches of members of Congress given by Sir H. G. Armstrong to support his contention can be multiplied many times.

The loans, on the repayment of which the United States is insisting with such determination, were first moved in Congress by President Woodrow Wilson when he addressed a joint meeting of the two Houses on April 2, 1917.

President Wilson's Advice.

President Wilson on that occasion advised Congress to declare war on Germany, which was done four days later.

"What this will involve," he said, "is clear. It will involve the utmost practical co-operation in council and action with the Governments now at war with Germany, and, as incident to that, the extension to these Governments of the most liberal financial credit, in order that our resources may as far as possible be added to theirs."

The intention was made even plainer in a later passage, in which, after referring to the internal measures of preparation necessary, the President added:

"THE GREAT LAW."

INTERESTING LECTURE BY
MRS. M. P. TALATI.

At a meeting of the Theosophical Society yesterday evening Mrs. M. P. Talati delivered an interesting address to a large gathering, taking as her subject "The Great Law." She said in part:—

I am going to speak to you about the great law, which governs the universe, and its principal aspects, which are mentioned in different religions. Tenyson says:

That God who always lives, and loves,
One God, one Law, one Element,
And one far off Divine Event,
To which the whole creation moves.

The universal Spirit of Life, whom we call God, is the fundamental Reality, the essence of all. He vivifies the whole universe, and manifests Himself in various forms. His Infinite Mind has planned the universe, and rules it in a right harmonious way.

There is a saying that order is heaven's first law. The regular movements of the solar system, the gradual growth of the vegetable, animal, and human kingdoms. The right orderly coming and going of seasons and all other orderly workings of nature, give most convincing evidence that there is a perfect universal mind working behind all these phenomena; and that the universe is fashioned according to a certain plan and is ruled according to certain fixed laws.

The cosmic law, which keeps right order, and preserves harmony and peace in the whole universe, is called the law of Asha, or Ashom in Zoroastrian religion.

Asha is the fundamental Truth, the mainspring of all manifestations and all evolution. It is the third aspect of God. His Holy Spirit. And is identical to Satya in the Hindu religion.

Asha is the truth which upholds the throne of God Himself.

The path of Asha is called "Asha Path" which means the "Right Path." It is the only one path walking along which one can reach his spiritual Father, or can attain to his ultimate goal of happiness.

The Vedic Religion.

In ancient Vedic religion, this cosmic law is known as Rita, and has exactly the same significance as Asha or Arta in Avasta (Zoroastrian Scripture).

The word Dharma, which has replaced Rita in Hindu religion, also signifies Righteousness, though its ordinary meaning is duty.

Sometimes people think that there is no justice in nature, and good and bad fortune comes by luck or chance, because they see good people apparently suffering and unrighteous people enjoying their lives. Again they see some seemingly unkind phenomena of nature such as earthquakes, storms, floods, and other earthly calamities. The reason is that we judge all things according to a few apparent events, and circumstances of one's life, but there are always some remote or hidden causes which we cannot trace back or understand easily.

If there were no justice in nature nobody's life would be safe for a moment.

The Laws of Nature.

It is only when one violates the laws of nature that one physically, or mentally suffers. Everywhere in nature we see mercy, sympathy, co-operation, and the method of removal of, or resistance towards, what is unnatural or abnormal.

Good fortune is called "Asha," in the Zoroastrian religion, because it is the result of following Asha, or righteousness.

If there were no justice in nature, our lives would be full of fear and uncertainty. It is only when we put implicit faith in the righteousness of the Universal Creator that we can confidently believe and say "All is Well," the most righteous power rules the universe, we need not fear anything, nothing can prevent us from going on and attaining to our right goal, the real happiness.

The law of Karma is one of the principal aspects of the universal law, which is based upon perfect righteousness. Karma means action. "As you sow so shall you reap," is the natural law mentioned in all great religions, and it teaches us that if we direct our activities of life in a right way, we get a good reward, but if we do wrong we suffer.

To be sorry for having done wrong, after having understood it, and to go back to the right path, that is to give up doing wrong, and to do the right henceforth is the surest way for atoning wrong actions.

Though the physical effects of wrong actions can not be altogether prevented, they can be atoned by the sublimation of good actions in future, or by transmuting them into useful lessons. It is possible that one sad experience might be an instrument for saving ourselves and others from hundreds of such experiences in future.

Even the worst criminal can be changed into a saint, if he repents and changes his mode of life. That depends upon what one chooses to be, and chooses to do.

In fact it is not any outside judge or authority who judges our private actions. It is our own spiritual self that makes laws for guiding our own life, and judges our actions most accurately, and gives a decree, or imposes punishment upon us for our own betterment. Nobody knows us better than our own spiritual self. We cannot deceive our spiritual self which is one with the universal self, whose very nature is absolute righteousness. This is why Sages have said "Man Know Thyself."

The Hindu Beliefs.

In the Hindu language Karma means actions, and Karma also means destiny, because destiny is the result of our past actions. Many Hindus believe that not only the condition of our whole life but all incidents of our life are predetermined. They believe that the record of destiny is unchangeable; and so whatever befalls them, they take it as an unchangeable destiny of their life. Such an attitude of mind though it keeps them passive and calm, does not encourage them to endeavour to improve their conditions.

Our life here is affected by various activities, of innumerable people, directly or indirectly. It is influenced by our home, and societies, our surroundings and circumstances, our education and many other things; so our present condition of life either happy or unhappy is not the result of only our individual karma or past actions, but is also the result of the actions of innumerable individuals that are living now and have lived before.

The satisfaction of doing our duty as well as possible is the greatest satisfaction we can have, no matter in what condition we are.

The law of evolution is the most prominent law of nature, and of our life, and has been occupying the minds of the great thinkers, for solving the problems that are related to it. Ancient Hindu Sages explained it in a certain way which is known as the theory of the law of reincarnation. According to ancient Hindu belief our soul is an ego, a particular ray of the Monad which remains after one's death in the invisible world, and after the disintegration of its etheric, emotional and mental bodies, reincarnates into new bodies that may be fit for its evolution, and thus evolves individually, until it gains its perfection.

The object of our life is to assert its infinite power, and to express the truth and beauty of its nature which is unity, justice, love, harmony, and peace, and the goal of life is perfect happiness derived from perfect expression of life.

BIG NAZI PLOT.

POLICE UNEARTH PLAN TO CAPTURE BERLIN.

Berlin, Mar. 17.

The latest of the periodical alarms over secret Nazi activities has stimulated the Prussian authorities to swift, sharp action following discovery of an alleged plan to surround and capture Berlin on election day, "as soon as Hitler has assumed power."

Elaborate machinery timed the revolt to begin when the Nazi leaders all over the country received a telegram stating "Grandmother dead."

The police at present are raiding Nazi establishments all over Prussia.—Reuter.

PICTURESQUE AND STRIKING SCENES AT THE OLYMPIC WINTER GAMES.

The free-for-all type of speed skating that brought controversy into the Winter Olympics at Lake Placid, N.Y., is shown in this picture of the first heat of the 10,000 meter race. Foreign skaters, accustomed to racing against time, protest that contestants were crowded together on turns, as pictured here.

A PARADE OF ATHLETES of seventeen nations raised the curtain of the Third Olympic Winter Games at Lake Placid, N.Y. Here you see the American contestants, white-coated and white-hatted entering the stadium.

A FIGHTING FINISH gave the Canadian hockey team victory over the United States in the thrilling match, pictured here, which was an opening event of the Third Olympic Winter Games. The Canadians tied the score with a minute to go and fought on to win, 2 to 1, in extra time.

FLASHING OVER THE ICE ahead of the world's fastest speed skaters, Jack Shea, Dartmouth College, is shown winning the 500-metre race which opened the Olympic winter games at Lake Placid. Shea finished six yards in front of Bernt Evensen, Norway's famous defending titlist.

A famous "musher" and a famous dog team were acclaimed as victors in the 25-mile Adirondack Trail race when this picture was taken. Emile St. Gaudard, of Le Pas, Manitoba, is shown at the finish of a difficult contest that had caused the collapse of the dogs of two other teams.

THREE KINDS of LOVE

by KAY CLEAVER STRAHAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Ann and Cecily Fenwick have for years supported themselves, their younger sister, Mary-Frances, and their grandparents, known as "Uncle" and "Auntie" because of the financial responsibility. Ann, who is 28, is unable to marry Phil Fenwick, young lawyer to whom she has been engaged for eight years. Cecily, 22, loves Harry McKee, an engineer, but when he proposes she refuses to name their wedding date for the same reason.

Mary-Frances, 18, and still in school, strikes up an acquaintance with Earl De Armont, vaudeville actor, and meets him secretly. He tries to persuade her to become his stage partner.

Ann and Phil quarrel when she hears Letty King, who works in Phil's office building, address him with endearments. Then Cecily learns Harry has left town without telling her. She is much distressed.

De Armont continues to urge Mary-Frances to join his vaudeville act.

CHAPTER XXXIII

"I can't help it," said Mary-Frances. "My family would never in this world think of letting me."

"Your family? Cripes!" said Earl. "Say, listen, hon. I'd be the last man of earth to influence any girl, let alone you, against her parents' wishes or anything—see? But you ain't got a happy home life nor anything. And you're crazy about me, and I'm crazy about you—see? Now, look at it from that point of view. And leave me tell you this: A girl with your looks and shape could sure go far—travel, see the world—"

"And come home," dreamed Mary-Frances, "and be rich and famous, and bring presents to everybody, and all would be forgiven, and—"

"Well, yeah, sure. Now, after I got that letter from Butt yesterday, I got to thinking—see? Well, what I was thinking was, why couldn't you and I just skip out, most any night now, in the bus together. No parting, nor keeping in touch through letters, like you said—"

"I didn't say 'keeping in touch through letters.'"

"Well, whether it was. We'd be in Denver in sight of a week, and—"

Whether or not Mary-Frances saw, she did not immediately say, and no wonder. Here was material for thought. She might have paused to doubt that Earl's father had ever made such a silly will—fathers rarely do so. She might have been considering Earl's age in connection with the possibility, at least, that he had been married and divorced and could not remarry before a year had elapsed. Or, granting her trustfulness, or credulity, or both, and without accusing her of capriciousness, she might have been speculating as to the extent of the fortune to which Earl was so soon to fall heir. Her answer finally spoken, may or may not be indicative of the thought processes that contrived it.

"We could be engaged," she said. "And you could go on to Denver, and I could go to the girls' camp, like I'd planned. It is going to be better than ever this year, and Mr. Hill is going to arrange so that Ermintrude and I can have ponies to ride and everything; and I've got my knicker suit already, and there's going to be a swimming tournament, and Cissy said I could borrow her swimming suit. It is so much prettier than mine. We'd have a secret engagement, and we could write letters, and I'd dedicate long hours to go off in the woods and think about you. If the girls thought it was queer or anything, Ermintrude could kind of tell them—just hint, you know—that I had a beautiful though kind of sorrowful secret. We'd be faithful all through the year, and—"

"Cripes!" he interposed. "What's the use of all the agony? I'm not much hand at writing letters. Never was. 'Nother thing, you're overlooking the main issue—see? What about the act? What's going to happen to the act, with you off in that damn—pardon me—camp and me in Denver without a partner or anything? Trouble with you, hon, you got no imagination. We're crazy about one another—see? You being so poetical and pretty and all. How'd I feel thinking about you left alone out here, prey to any evils and temptations that might come along and not a happy home life nor anything? A successful performer, he's got to put his heart into it as well as his legs—see? Or it won't get across. It won't get across."

"You mean," interpreted Mary-Frances, "that if I don't go with you it will ruin your professional career?"

"Hell!" said a sorely overworked and perhaps a slightly overwrought Mr. De Armont. "I got no professional career at present, have I?"

"Well," rebuked Mary-Frances, "I must say, Earl—"

"Now, hon, don't get sore. Don't do it. I shouldn't of talked that way. You'll have to excuse me. I just forgot myself. What I mean to say is—well, how I mean is—I need you, Frankie; honest I do."

The crown was heavy for her pretty young head. Her chin went down instead of up. Intuitively she knew that she had won the guerdon of womankind. "I need you." But the trouble was, though she was aware of its worth and unaware of its dangers, she did not want it. Agenor was not her grandpa.

"It ain't," Earl went on, "that I don't see your point of view and all like that. But I'm a gentleman. If you know anything about me by this time you must know that I'm a gentleman—see? And I give you my word of honor—my holy word of honor—that I'd treat you square, see? Straight, see? And when I mean straight I don't mean maybe. And you won't be much more anxious than I am for the final—that is to say, for the final time to come when we can get married and everything open and above-board—see? Until that time comes, I'm telling you, Frankie—pals, buddies, absolutely. No more and no less, see?"

Miss Elsie Miller (left) and Mrs. Lois Brooks Potter, members, respectively, of the American and Canadian speed-skating teams, practicing in the Olympia Stadium.

"Well," demurred Mary-Frances, "I'll think it over again. But I don't much believe I'd better go."

"Think it over—huh? Say, listen, Frankie, if this was any other girl but you I'd think you was stringing me—see? Playing me for a sucker. I know you ain't. I know how pure and sincere and unselfish you are and everything. But, just the same, you've been thinking this matter over for weeks now—see? We haven't got any more time to better business experienced by that Company in Peking, which I ventured to forebode from the Chair last year. It will doubtless prove of interest to shareholders to learn that the Grand Hotel des Wagons-Lits, Ltd.—in which concern your Company is a holding Company to the extent of 95% of the issued capital thereof—was enabled during the financial period ending 30th June, 1931, not only to retire completely through its own resources the Debenture issue amounting to $231,000, but was also in a position to effect a distribution of 10% on its ordinary capital. Furthermore, the financial position, at the aforementioned date was such that, apart from being freed of all debt, a reserve had been built up of the equivalent of 50% of the paid up capital and of such reserve 33-1/3rd per cent. via-via the capital of the Company is invested in first class securities.

HOTEL COMPANY'S PROJECTS.

Reduced Expenditure.

Returning to the Profit & Loss Account, the sum of $24,215.30, credited in respect of "Premium on Shares", was realised from the sales on the open market—your Board directed to be made—of certain shares out of the Company's last two issues of Capital which had not been taken up by those holders of old shares entitled to apply for them.

Diverting your attention to the contra side of the Profit & Loss Account, I would comment upon the item—"Rent, Rates, Taxes & Licences"—$167,335.86. Comparison of this figure with the like item in last year's accounts reveals a reduced expenditure this year of some $40,444. This reduction is accounted for by the fact that last year's figures included a charge for rental in respect of the Company's tenancy of the Majestic Hotel, Shanghai, during the first quarter of that year.

The net charge for Mortgage and Bank Interest, for the period under review, $146,000 lower than the commitment under that heading during the preceding year. The incidence of transfer from Shanghai during the year of the sale proceeds of the Majestic Hotel Property which stood to the Company's credit there—funds to which I made reference at the last annual meeting and the receipt of some $2,000,000 in respect of the New Issue of Shares made on the 1st July last, contributed mainly to this considerable saving in interest.

"Loss on Exchange."

I would here make reference to the item of $90,712.27 "Loss on Exchange" borne by last year's Profit & Loss Account. At the Annual General Meeting held in April, 1930, Shareholders, in dealing with appropriations of profit made in respect of the financial year 1929, adopted the Board's recommendation that $150,000 out of the balance at credit of Profit and Loss Account be transferred to an "Exchange Fluctuation Account" with a view to effecting provision for losses on exchange involved in making remittances from Shanghai to Hongkong, having regard to the fluctuating cross rate between Shanghai Tael and Hongkong Dollars. During the year under review the exchange position between the Northern Port and Hongkong rendered difficult the transfer of funds standing to the credit of the Company in Shanghai. It was deemed advisable, however, to take advantage of opportunities which arose during the year, when the trend of exchange inclined comparatively favourably, to make transfers, as the immediate actual saving in interest payments effected by the consequent reduction of our indebtedness to the Bank in Hongkong outweighed the Book loss such transfers involved.

Transference of approximately $8 lakhs of dollars from Shanghai to Hongkong was made during the last financial year. The book loss involved on these transactions absorbed the reserve of $150,000 and necessitated, in addition, that a further $90,712.27 be borne out of the year's working. As a large portion of the aforementioned funds were not remitted until towards the end of 1931 the saving in Bank Interest charges in Hongkong, resultant upon these transfers, will not be wholly reflected in the Company's Accounts until the figures for the year 1932 are dealt with.

Commission and Depreciation.

With regard to the item of $61,127.07 appearing as a charge for Commissions, as, on comparison with figures appearing under heading in past years, this item may appear heavy, I would state, in explanation, that a re-adjustment of the basis of remuneration of a large number of the Company's staff is accountable for this. During the year it was found expedient to effect an alteration to the basis of salary payments to Managers and heads of departments in the Company's various establishments. Under the amended arrangements the remuneration paid comprises a smaller basic salary to the employee, but is augmented by a large percentage by way of commission on the working results shown by respective departments. Although the combined charges in the Company's Accounts in respect of such payments to the personnel involved shows no material increase, the apportionment as between "Salary" and "Commission" reveals a much heavier charge under the latter heading. It is proposed in future accounts to charge the whole of such remuneration against the General Working Accounts and confine the Profit and Loss Account item of "Commissions" solely to administrative payments which may occur under this heading.

You will note that the past year's accounts disclose the provision of adequate depreciation, before computation of the figure of profits before you for allocation, and I would point out that, in addition, a considerable part of the work effected in maintaining and modernizing the Company's assets has been borne out of revenue. You will observe that the Profit and Loss Account includes expenditure amounting to $137,872.22 for the year in relation to this.

Further, out of the balance standing to the credit of Repairs and Renewals Account at the beginning of the year, $48,797.23 has been absorbed in relation to the cost of part of the improvements effected to the ground and first floor areas of the Hongkong Hotel not capitalised.

In reviewing the assets side of the balance sheet, there would appear to be no outstanding feature upon which to comment, for the application of the depreciation provision accounts, in most instances, for differences disclosed when comparing respective figures of assets with those appearing in last year's accounts, with one exception, i.e., the item "Buildings", which this year is recorded at a sum of $150,000 higher than appeared last year. This increase represents mainly the capitalised portion of the expenditure on the improvements carried out to the Hongkong Hotel Building in reconstructing the ground floor and the first floor areas.

Popular Lounge.

Whilst on this subject, I can report that the completion of this work, which brought into productive operation a hitherto dead area and fulfilled the long apparent necessity of improving the grill room, restaurant and lounge facilities of the Hongkong Hotel, produced an immediate increase in business, sufficiently gratifying in volume to permit an optimistic outlook with regard to maintaining, out of the earnings produced from the reconstructed property, an adequate return upon the expenditure made in respect of such work.

With regard to the liabilities side of the balance sheet, you will observe that the authorised capital of

FRIDAY, MARCH 18, 1932.

THE TARIFF QUESTION.

Mr. Lloyd George envisages the National Government remaining in office for a period of four years, during which time, it is to be presumed, its tariff policy will be extended rather than contracted. In the meantime, the former Liberal Premier is prepared to lead the anti-tariff section of his party in a fight for the restoration of Free Trade. What impression will be made on the country is a matter for speculation. Much will depend, we imagine, on the effects of the tariff on living costs. Mr. Lloyd George is naturally angry with those Liberals who have made possible the breach with the country's traditional fiscal policy. He has grounds for being so, in view of the probability that every endeavour will be made by the Government to retain tariffs permanently.

As we read the position, the only mandate which the Government had for a tariff was one for a merely emergency measure, designed to rectify the adverse balance of trade and payments. It is, of course, to be admitted that the Conservatives, who predominate in the Government, wanted a tariff long before the emergency. The emergency gave them their chance of getting it. They now appear to have no intention of letting it slip. The Government decisions represent a "two-decker" or rather a "three-decker" tariff in view of the provision for special discriminating duties. This as a permanency, and not merely as a means of rectifying the balance of trade. There is the general, or almost general, tariff for revenue, levied at a flat rate. This revenue tariff, it is to be noted, is totally different from the proposal sponsored some time back by Mr. J. M. Keynes, the noted economist. Mr. Keynes' proposal was put forward mainly as a means of offsetting the over-valuation of sterling consequent on the return to the gold standard. But Britain is no longer on the gold standard, so that argument has gone. Moreover, Mr. Keynes, recognising the danger of the proposal to export trade, proposed to combine the revenue tariff with a corresponding bounty on exports. Mr. Neville

Chamberlain provides for drawbacks, it is true, but not in respect of the ten per cent; only of the higher duties levied on selected articles. How, therefore, he can argue, as he has done, that a revenue tariff levied on most of the raw and semi-finished materials of industry is likely to stimulate exports, it is difficult to see.

There are many other aspects of the matter which could be gone into, but it will suffice if we put forward a very sane view which has been expressed on this tariff problem. Admitting that something was needed over and above the departure from the gold standard and the restrictions which existed on imports, the plea is advanced that any measure adopted should have been strictly temporary, and all semblance of a bargaining tariff should have been carefully avoided. Secondly, there should have been no general tariff applicable to raw or semi-finished materials vital to British industry. Thirdly, it would have been better to proceed farther on the lines of the Abnormal Importations Act, by means of almost prohibitive duties on a narrow range of articles, than to impose protection over a wide field; and it would have been far wiser, in certain cases at least, to restrict imports by a licensing system similar to that of the Dyestuffs Act than by the imposition of duties.

Those Scrawling Signatures.

Every time father becomes critical of his son's handwriting as displayed in his latest school composition, perhaps he will do well to consider what kind of signature he himself attached during the afternoon to his pile of outgoing letters. If father's signature is at all like the average pen trucks, the son need not feel greatly ashamed. Probably son's handwriting does not exhibit such a gorgeous assortment of angles and curves as father's, but it is doubtless more printable, more restful to the eye. The increased momentum of the business day, the necessity for signing letters in job lots, has played havoc with present-day script, declare teachers of penmanship. The copperplate dignity and legibility that characterized the correspondence of a former generation is now stultified under a glass case, along with the feathered pen and the bowl of blotting sand. Our jiggling chirography is but another striking example of the modern demand for fast work. No wonder army regulations insist that all official correspondence must have the typewritten name of the writer in close proximity to the inked signature, so that no time will be wasted in deciphering scrawling penmanship. Indeed, this system might well be adopted in many civilian organisations. It is fortunate that the typewriter and telephone have come to the aid of the busy taipan. If he were compelled to drive a pen many hours a day, recipients of his letters would probably require a board of high-salaried puzzle experts to interpret their meaning. As it is, many a majestic signature needs the swift attention of the well-known pruning knife.

DEATH OF MR. A. MCALLUM.

RAILWAY OFFICIAL PASSES AWAY.

It is with much regret that we have to chronicle the death of Mr. Archibald McCallum, Permanent Way Inspector of the Kowloon-Canton Railway, which took place at the Kowloon Hospital late last night.

The deceased, who was born near Dundee and was only 38 years of age, came to the Colony in August, 1924, as second-class overseer in the Public Works Department, which post he held until April 1926, when he was transferred to the Railway as acting Permanent Way Inspector, being promoted to the substantive post in August of the same year.

He was admitted to hospital on Saturday, suffering from pneumonia, and despite every medical attention he passed away last night.

The late Mr. McCallum saw service during the war with the Royal Engineers. Although he was keenly interested in sport, he took no active part in any games in the Colony, but was a member of the Kowloon Football Club and the Engineers' Institute. He was not married.

Of a genial disposition, he made numerous friends, who will deeply regret his passing.

The funeral takes place this evening, passing the Monument at 5 p.m.

A small boy who was convicted yesterday of obstructing the police was again produced at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning when he was sentenced to six strokes and to sign a bond of $100 to be of good behaviour for 12 months. The police verified his statement that he had no relatives in Hongkong.

St. John's Hall, Hongkong University, is organising a charity concert in aid of the Shanghai Relief Fund. The concert will take place on 1st & 2nd April, at 8 p.m. in St. Paul's College. The items will be contributed by well-known artists. There will be also a painting exhibition to be held on the same dates in the College from 2 p.m. to 7 p.m. The exhibition will consist of over a hundred oil paintings by Italian artists, being the collection of Mr. Luigi De-Dionigi, ex-Vice-Consul of Italy.

A most enjoyable concert was given at the Helena May Institute last evening, the contributors to the programme being Mrs. A. M. Bowes-Smith (soprano), Mrs. N. Mathieson (contralto), Mr. H. G. Annes (tenor), Dr. L. T. Ride (baritone), Mr. M. Barton (bass), Miss Daisy Ma (pianist), with Mr. F. Mason A.R.C.O. L.T.C.L., accompanying. Vocal items predominated, the quartettes, quintettes and duets being especially appreciated, particularly the delightful numbers from "Merrie England." The final concert of the season is being held on March 31st.

Sentences amounting to one year's hard labour in all were imposed on a young Chinese who appeared before Mr. Wynne Jones at the Central Police Court this morning on charges of theft of three boxes of Omandin, from the King's Dispensary of 94, Queen's Road, and two boxes of chocolates from the M. Y. San Co.; also of returning from banishment. Detective Sergeant D. Fitches, said the defendant was a gang of three shop-lifters. One of them would go into the premises and pretend to make purchases whilst the other two would commit the thefts. His Worship described the defendant as a kleptomaniac, remarking that he was afraid the man was a hopeless case.

BAD MANNERS.

Cult of Stage and Screen.

By S. R. LITTLEWOOD.

NOT ALL those of us who have regularly to represent the public in the theatre and cinema have agreed with Mr. Gilbert Chesterton's recent pronouncement about the descent "from Olympus." If Homer sang of the gods of Greece had a lower standard of humour than any permitted by the Lord Chamberlain or by Mr. Shortt. But about the descent from a level of good taste and good manners of which we in England had only a few years ago every reason to be proud no doubt can exist. There is prevalent just now a cult of stupidity, vulgarity, and bad manners for their own sake—even in the highest class of comedy—which does urgently need purging by an enlightened public opinion.

The old notion that the stage is there to set a good example in manners has, of course, long disappeared. Gone is the tradition by which it was expected to suggest, if it did not fulfil, a romantic ideal of courtesy, of loyalty, of grace. Our comedy has forfeited at once respect for age and regard for innocence. No longer does a grande dame of the type represented so memorably by the late Rose Leclercq rule in a court where young people approached each other with chivalrous reserve.

Some of those old St. James's comedies, for instance, which many still remember gratefully and vividly—how impossible, if not laughable, they would seem now! When the late George Neilson, under greeted Miss Julia Neilson, in Sir Arthur Elmer's pleasant play, with "Time has flown high above your head, Princess," he was speaking a different language, moving in a different world, from ours. Even Sir Gerald du Maurier, our present mirror of good breeding, would be constrained to give his old acquaintance an audible slap upon her shoulder, saying, "Five years older and you look every minute of it, my dear!"—or words to some such candid effect.

It may be argued, of course, that life is no longer a minutely that a modern heroine has no time to receive homage with her train twisted into a pool in front of her. It may be held that the nice conduct of an ostrich-fan, the perfect pose upon a Louis Quinze settee, simply do not matter in comparison with the urgency of current problems and passions. Only lately I saw the leading lady in a West-End theatre sit down in front of the audience with her toes visibly turned in. I need not give the name of the distinguished culprit, but her performance was almost universally praised.

For all this there is something to be said. Times change—and manners with them. The leisurely and self-conscious development of the old school may have given place to something better in the eager sincerity, the courage, and comradeship, which the youth of our period does at its best supply. No one need take umbrage at a faithful reflection of life as it is—of changes, for example, in domestic ritual. Need we blame children for calling their parents by their Christian names—especially if the parents like it—or for

The same is true in an even larger measure of the cinema, for which in England we are only partially responsible, save in an unfortunate and belated imitation of America's mistakes. Here as things are, "the tall wags the dog" logically and inevitably. The gangster-film, with its gutter-bred gunman, living in luxury and pursuing criminal adventures to a heroic end, and the films that revel in crude horror and sensational allurements, are definitely "traded" to a half-educated public, who seem sometimes to have no power to appreciate anything better. The higher-class patrons of the key-cinemas in the big towns are more publicity-pawns in the game of getting at the masses on both sides of the Atlantic.

Yet even here the heaven is working. A good, clean, beautiful film does get its response now and again, whatever its language. It is possible that from the point of view of convenience, the passing of the Censorship into the Lord Chamberlain's control would modify the present chaos. It might tend to raise the standard of the talk-film to that of the theatre—such as it is. But first, last, and always the real Censorship lies in the public mind, so often and vastly disappointing, yet never without its germ of good.

The steam launch Cormorant and a junk which was being towed by the steam launch Kwong Siu came into collision in the harbour at noon yesterday. The junk was being towed from Kowloon to Hongkong and the Cormorant was steaming from west to east. Damage to the extent of $400 was caused to the junk, which was insured.

HOTEL COMPANY'S PROJECTS.

The Company, $10,000,000, now stands completely issued. Loans secured by Mortgage, which, at the 31st December last, amounted to $2,009,046.17, have been reduced to the lowest level experienced by the Company during the past twelve years.

The Repairs and Renewals Account, as I have previously pointed out, suffered depletion during the year to the extent of $48,797.23 and your approval is sought to replenish this account out of last year's profit so as to bring again the credit balance thereof to $100,000.

Bus Services.

I am again in a position to comment upon continued popularity of the bus services operated by the Company. The additional patronage extended to such services during the year have produced a satisfactory increase in revenue from the two major routes of approximately (10%) ten per cent. over last year's figures. Comparing the year 1931 with the year 1930, over 730,000 additional passengers were carried on all routes last year on a reduced mileage of 12,000 miles, such reduction in mileage being attributable to the utilisation of larger type buses over routes during the rush hours. It is an interesting fact that, since the inception of the Queen's Road route in the Autumn of 1928, some 13½ million passengers have been carried over that route and since January 1929, 6 million passengers over the University route. The figures for the year under review total over 7½ million passengers for all routes.

In spite of the increased revenue, however, you will readily comprehend that the enhanced cost of operation consequent upon the depreciation value of the local currency prevailing during the major portion of the year, coupled with the high prices ruling for gasoline and the Government Taxation imposed thereon, rendered it difficult to produce a profit on working, having regard to the fact that no increase in fares was sought. Successful exploitation by the Company of all possible avenues for effecting economies in operation during the year has enabled this side of the Company's activities to contribute a profit to the general Working Account for 1931 which, in the circumstances, can be considered highly satisfactory. A reduction in gasoline prices since the beginning of this year, combined with a reduction applicable to the cost of tyres and other equipment, renders more favourable the operating prospects of the current year.

A Satisfactory Experiment.

As foreshadowed last year, serious consideration has been given to the utilisation of the Diesel type engine in the Company's vehicles. From the progress made in experimental work during the year a decision resulted to convert one of our buses from petrol to oil fuel with a Crossley diesel type engine. As may have been observed from recent reports in the local Press, this vehicle was inspected by the police last month and passed all tests satisfactorily. Since that date the converted vehicle has been in regular service and has functioned most satisfactorily. In the circumstances, steps are now being taken to effect similar conversion to the other vehicles which, on completion, should bring about a very considerable saving in fuel costs, a further factor tending to the increased prospects with regard to the future operation of this Department.

With regard to the sum of $232,997.11 out of the balance of Profit & Loss Account, which your Directors recommend be carried forward to the New Account, as this figure may appear to be unduly high, I would say that, at the time your Directors' Report and recommendations were formulated, the situation at Shanghai appeared sufficiently uncertain and grave as to prompt a certain degree of apprehension with regard to the prospects of our two establishments in that port for the current year. The desirability appeared indicated of conserving resources against the possible detrimental influences on operation, a lengthy continuance of the disturbed conditions might promote.

Shanghai War Risks.

At the time of the first clash in the Northern Port, your Board deemed it advisable to effect War Risk Insurance covering the Shanghai properties, and this was effected in respect of the month of February at a cost, for both the Astor House and Palace Hotels, of some $35,000. During the earlier term of the disturbed times, the situation, more particularly in view of the proximity of the Astor House to the most seriously affected area, in your Board's opinion, fully warranted the precautionary insurance measure undertaken. As later, however, the venue of the more dangerous clashes became further removed from the International Settlement, it was decided not to renew the insurance cover and same was permitted to lapse as at the end of February.

Increase of Capital.

There do not appear to be further matters arising from a review of the accounts upon which I can usefully comment, but before submitting to you the usual formal proposal thereon, I will interpolate reference to the purposes for which the further meetings to be held at the conclusion of this meeting have been convened.

With regard to the proposed increase in the authorised capital of the Company from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, should the resolution in that respect, to be later submitted to you, be duly passed, it is proposed to offer 200,000 of the new shares at par to existing shareholders at the ratio of one new share to every five old shares held, such new shares to be taken up by the 30th June, 1932.

As I previously mentioned, the Company's mortgage indebtedness stands at a figure just over two million dollars. The capital which will accrue to the Company from the proposed new issue will, therefore, bring this figure of indebtedness down to a comparatively negligible quantity.

Peak Hotel Reconstruction.

In recommending the increase of Capital proposed and the New Issue of Shares, your Board have in mind the desirability of placing the Company in a position to undertake the finance involved in the necessary reconstruction and development of certain of its properties without recourse to secured borrowing.

The reconstruction of the Peak Hotel, a matter brought up by a shareholder at the last annual meeting, is under consideration. In this connection I may add that it is highly improbable that a complete scheme of reconstruction will be undertaken at this juncture, having regard to the fact that this would necessitate a complete evacuation of the existing building involving a total loss of revenue covering a period estimated conservatively at two years, whilst it is highly improbable whether a modern establishment—incorporating the essentials of an up-to-date Hotel and entailing the heavy capital outlay attaching to such a project—would attract the volume of patronage and degree of spending power, in what is essentially a residential area, necessary in order to make the venture a success financially; rather is your Board inclined to the view that improvements can be effected to the existing establishment as opportunity permits with a resulting degree of modernization commensurate with the extremely reasonable rates charged—the latter factor being the prime attraction of that Hotel.

Happy Valley Garage.

Consideration must shortly be given, however, to a scheme for the extension and development of the Happy Valley Garage property, as the facilities there, suffer increasing restriction in view of the continued improved business experience in the transportation department.

Further requirements in connection with the Company's properties in Shanghai must not be lost sight of. The Astor House and Palace Hotels there continue to produce an adequate return upon the Company's investment in those properties, but consideration must sooner or later be devoted to the reconstruction of one or both of those establishments. Your Board's faith in the high values attaching to both of the properties in question continues to be justified notwithstanding the disturbed conditions in the Northern Port, and I think it well to mention, in view of the various rumours current from time to time with regard to this Company disposing of its Shanghai interests, that a firm offer to purchase the Astor House and Palace Hotels and contents for HK $6,500,000 was refused by the Board during last year.

Alternate Directors.

Turning to the second Resolution to be placed before you at a subsequent meeting this morning, which is in regard to the Articles of Association and for which your sanction is sought, these amendments, if passed, will effect necessary rectification to situations of inconvenience which have arisen in the past in the conduct of the Company's affairs.

Up to the present time Directors, when leaving the Colony temporarily, either resign from the Board or apply for leave of absence. In consequence, over many periods in the past, the Company's business has perforce had to be controlled by a Board very restricted in membership.

BINOCULAR THEFT FROM CAR.

BULLION BROKER ROBBED.

A pair of binoculars belonging to Mr. A. G. Coplin, bullion broker, was stolen from his car which was parked in Chater Road on February 23 during the annual race meeting, and at the Central Police Court this morning a Chinese was brought before Mr. Wynne Jones on charges of stealing the glasses and of causing damage to the car by cutting the back of the hood.

Detective Sergeant D. Fitcher informed his Worship that the car was parked in Chater Road on the third day of the races. It was locked, and the defendant was alleged to have cut the hood. He then inserted his hand and stole the binoculars, which were valued at $150. Enquiries were made and on information received the police found the binoculars at a fruit stall where they had been sold for $20. At the stall the police also found a blanket which had apparently been stolen from another car, as well as some tools.

In reply to his Worship, Mr. Coplin said it would be necessary to have a new back made for his hood.

The police applied for a week's formal remand for the owners of the blanket and the tools to be traced if possible.

In the circumstances it is deemed essential that steps be taken to alter the Articles of Association in order to provide for the appointment of alternate Directors, but it is considered to be in the best interests of the Company that the right to be vested in a Director of nominating another in his stead during temporary absence be restricted to Directors holding a material stake in the Company. The shares, which the members of your Board at this date hold or represent, total 254,000. Your Board, therefore, considered the power to nominate an Alternate Director should be restricted to those members of the Board who hold in their own right respectively not less than 25,000 shares in the at par, a stake in the Company of $250,000. It would appear unnecessary for me to make further comment on the subject of the proposed additions to the Company's Articles, having regard to the fact that, in the best interests of the general body of Shareholders, the merits of the proposed amendment are obviously apparent.

Dividends.

I now formally propose that the Report of the Directors and the account for the financial year ended 31st December, 1931, as presented, be adopted, and that the following appropriations recommended by your Directors, as incorporated in the Balance Sheet, be carried into effect:—To pay a dividend of 60 cents per share on 800,000 "Old" Shares, $480,000; to pay a dividend of 30 cents per share on 200,000 "New" Shares, $60,000; to transfer to Repairs and Renewals Account, $48,797.23; to carry forward to New Account, $232,997.11; and I shall be obliged if a Shareholder will kindly second such proposal, whereupon questions as to the Report and Accounts may be raised.

Congratulations.

Sir Henry Pollock, in seconding the adoption of the report and accounts said:—Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen—I have much pleasure in seconding the adoption of the report and the statement of accounts, and it is unnecessary for me to say much after the full and informative speech which has just been made by the Chairman.

The following three points, in regard to the past year, seem to me to be matters for congratulation. The first is the very satisfactory increase in the balance of our Working Account for 1931 over that for 1930, notwithstanding the very low rate of exchange which prevailed during the greater part of 1931. The second point is the fact that our bus services have notwithstanding a very moderate scale of fares, been run at a profit. The third point is the fact that the Wagons-Lits Hotel, in which our Company has an interest of about ninety-five per cent, has paid off all its debentures and has effected a distribution of ten per cent. on its Ordinary shares.

In Strong Position.

In short, it may safely be asserted that the Company is in a strong cash position, which will be yet further improved by the almost complete elimination of the item for Bank Interest, after the new issue of two million of dollars has been taken up in the middle of this year. It is interesting to note that the Board received an offer of six and a half million dollars for the Astor House and Palace Hotels during the past year. Personally I am confident that the International Settlement at Shanghai will continue to increase in prosperity, seeing that it is such a splendid example of the magnificent results which can be achieved by Chinese

BUSY TIMES FOR MINISTERS.

DELEGATES FOR CONFERENCES.

London, Mar. 17.

The Prime Minister announced to-day the provisional list of delegates to the Ottawa and Lausanne Conferences.

He said the Government had to be represented practically simultaneously at three most important conferences this Summer—the Disarmament Conference at Geneva, the Reparations Conference at Lausanne, opening in June, and the Imperial Conference at Ottawa in July.

Any announcement must depend on the claims made upon the services of the ministers during Summer. The delegation for Geneva was known.

The representatives at Ottawa would be the Secretary for the Dominions, Mr. Thomas, the Secretary for Colonies, Sir Philip Cunliffe List, the President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Runciman and the representative of the Ministry of Agriculture.

Subject to Government business considerations, the Lord President of Council, Mr. Baldwin, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Chamberlain and the War Secretary, Lord Hallam, would also attend.

At Lausanne, the Government would be represented by the Prime Minister Mr. Neville Chamberlain, Sir John Simon and Mr. Runciman.

If advisable, and possible, the services might be utilised of Sir Herbert Samuel, Sir Samuel Hoare or a representative of the Dominion Office.—British Wireless.

and Foreigners together, working in friendly co-operation with one another for the general good.

Mr. Alves' Approval.

Mr. J. M. Alves, in supporting, said:—I am quite in agreement with Sir Henry Pollock in his view as to the increasing prosperity of Shanghai. Considering the restricted area of the International Settlement, and the protection it can afford to its residents in times of trouble, as was fully proved during recent events there, I am sure that many shareholders will join with me in commending the foresight of the Directors in having turned down an offer of six and a half million dollars for our two properties, which are so well situated in the very centre of the business section of Shanghai, and the value of which must undoubtedly increase as time goes on. I have watched with great gratification the progress of this Company, and if tangible evidence is needed as to its stability one has but to study the figures presented to-day, bearing in mind the difficulties that had to be faced during a long period following the depression of 1925. Speaking for myself, optimistic as I am of the growing importance of Shanghai, I should feel indeed reluctant to entertain any idea of abandoning our establishments there. I would prefer rather to see our properties in the Northern Port—located as they are in such suitable positions to cater for the business in which the Company is engaged—developed along modern lines. I refer particularly to our Astor House site—very close to which as you may probably know a 22-story building is in course of construction. Considering such a policy, if pursued carefully, will, I am confident, redound with much financial benefit to the Company. With these remarks I beg to associate myself with what Sir Henry has just said.

The motion was unanimously adopted.

Other Business.

On the proposition of Mr. J. F. Wright, seconded by Mr. J. P. Sherry, Mr. W. H. Bell's appointment to the Directorate was confirmed, and Mr. J. Scott Harston was re-elected to the Board.

Messrs. Percy Smith, Seth and Fleming were re-appointed auditors on the motion of Mr. F. M. Ellis, seconded by Mr. G. H. Potts, this concluding the business.

Resolutions Adopted.

At the extraordinary general meeting, which followed, it was proposed by the Chairman, and seconded by Mr. H. Lo that the four resolutions authorising the issue of $5,000,000 of new capital be adopted, and the motion was unanimously carried.

The meeting similarly signified its approval of the resolution for the alteration to the Articles of Association for the introduction of alternate directors, after it had been proposed by the Chairman and seconded by Mr. N. V. A. Croucher.

WAR DEBTS ISSUE.

Accordingly, the Act in which provision was made for the establishment of credits in favour of "the Governments engaged in war with the enemies of the United States" began thus:

"For the purpose of more effectively providing for the national security and defence, and for prosecuting the war . . .

Here are the words in which the Bill was supported by members of Congress in various stages of its passage through the two Houses in the latter part of April, 1917: Senator McCumber (Chairman of the Finance Committee): "It is probably true that more than a quarter of a million men are going down to death, or being wounded or captured, every month during the contest. Therefore, while they are suffering to that extent, we ought to be mighty liberal in the expenditure of money when we take no-day in the real battle, which is the battle of the American people."

No Repayment From France. Senator Kenyon: "I want to say this for myself, that I hope one of these loans, if we make it, will never be paid, and that we will never ask that it be paid. We owe more to the Republic of France for what it has done for us than we can ever repay. I never want to see this Government ask France to return the loan we make to her."

IRISH BALL BIG SUCCESS.

MERRY CROWD THROG
PENINSULA HOTEL.

BLARNEY CASTLE.

To the accompaniment of those melodious old airs and the gay wit for which the Emerald Isle is noted, the Irish Community in Hongkong last night celebrated the day of their patron saint, St. Patrick, by a merry ball at the Peninsula Hotel. The second ball since the St. Patrick's Society was formed last year, it was an even more successful function than last year's.

The animated scene inside the Peninsula might have been a piece of Old Ireland itself, with its overpowering predominance of shamrocks, shillelaghs and shebeens. An energetic decoration committee had set the rooms out in a riot of colour, in which green of course was outstanding. Green bunting draped the columns, the shades of the Irish provinces surmounted the capitals, and harps and shamrocks were slung from the ceiling. There was a welcome on the mat in the shape of a glittering array of electric lights, bidding the merry-makers "Good Night" from the canopy over the main entrance in Salisbury Road, and strings of British and Irish national flags in all rooms made all feel at home.

In the supper room, British, Irish, Scottish, English and Welsh national flags were draped behind the official table and in the middle of the buffet table was a replica of the Treaty Stone at Sandfield Bridge at Limerick, which is the native city of Col. C. D. Myles, the Society's President. A similar decoration scheme was carried out in the roof garden, which was the main ball-room. Flags of the Irish Free State, the Union Jack, and Emblems of St. George, St. Andrew and St. David's Societies acted as a reminder to the official dais, and "Erin Go Bragh" was proclaimed in a prominent position. Round the walls were the shield of the Star of the Knights of St. Patrick, and the escutcheons of Connaught quartered, together with the arms of the principal cities in Ireland.

Blarney Castle Popular. At the left of the official dais was the Blarney Castle, which proved such a feature of the initial St. Patrick's Ball. Throughout the night a procession of C. dancers sought its portals to be conducted to the stone to implant a chaste salutation thereon. Certificates to that effect were presented to all those who did so, primary certificates for those who were having their initial experience, and secondary for those who had gone through the ordeal at the first Ball. A huge shamrock hung from the centre of the ceiling.

Across the annex in the rose room, the decorations were on a similar style with an Irish harp dangling from the ceiling and shield of Irish cities and provinces surmounting the capitals of the green-draped columns.

An enlarged label of Guinness' Stout left no doubts as to what lay behind the door labelled "She and been". An array of Irish and English flags gave the incentive for many toasts—if any encouragement was needed.

Governor Arrives. His Excellency the Governor and Lady Peel arrived at the Hotel at 9.30 and together with Major-General J. W. Sandilands, Lady Kelly, and Capt. A. H. Walker (Commodore) and Mrs. Walker, were received by Col. Myles, Sir Joseph Kemp and Prof. F. A. Redmond. The party arrived in the ball-room at 9.40, and after the National Anthem, the bevy of collectors made their bows and Miss Frances Mahony presented a beautiful Shillelagh to His Excellency and a sprig of shamrock to Lady Peel. The collectors then set the ball rolling again by distributing shamrocks to the guests. A homely atmosphere pervaded the supper room on the first floor which was laid out on the buffet style. Among the official guests were:

Hon. Mr. W. T. Southern, Hon. Mr. C. G. Alabaster, Hon. Mr. E. R. Hallifax, Hon. Mr. E. Taylor, Hon. Mr. H. T. Cressy, Hon. Sir Shou-sun Chow, Hon. Mr. W. E. L. Shenton, Mr. E. Cock, Mr. A. Stevenson, Mrs. Cressy, Mrs. Potter, Mrs. Southern, Mrs. Stevenson, Mrs. Cock, Mrs. Hallifax, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Scott Harston, Mrs. Davies, Mr. D. Davies.

During the supper Mr. V. Derenovsky's orchestra dispensed a selection of old Irish airs, at the conclusion of which, the throng trooped back to continue their dancing and merry-making until the early hours.

The Committees. The General committee of the St. Patrick's Society for 1932 was: Col. C. D. Myles, O.B.E., President; Professor F. A. Redmond, Vice-President; Hon. Sir J. H. Kemp, C.B.E., Past President; Mr. B. H. C. Hallows, Hon. Treasurer; Mr. G. P. Murphy and Lieut. P. T. Mahony, R. E. Hon. Secretaries; Surg. Commr. S. E. Brown, R.N.

MANCHURIAN UNREST.

MOVEMENT AGAINST MA
CHAN-SHAN.

DISORDERS SPREAD.

Tokyo, Mar. 17. While the latest press reports declare that Moscow has intimated its readiness to co-operate with the new Manchuria State so far as the Chinese Eastern Railway is concerned, internal dissension among the leaders of the Manchurian Government is already threatening to precipitate a serious crisis.

The local warlords of Heilungkiang province are reported to be instigating the troops to raise against General Ma Chan-shan whom they accuse of seeking personal glory in accepting the position of War Minister, while Tsang Shi-yi is demanding that Hai Hsia, the former Governor of Kirin, shall resign his post of Finance Minister, claiming that he is unfit for the position.

Following the recent outbreaks in Peking and Manchuria, disturbances are now reported in Payan, seventy miles to the north-east of Harbin, and there are indications that the unrest will spread unless Ma Chan-shan resigns.

It is considered significant that General Honjo, who at present is carrying out a tour of inspection in north Manchuria, yesterday visited and conferred with Ma Chan-shan.—Reuter.

Town Captured.

Tokyo, Mar. 17. A message from Changchun states that a large force of insurgents, possessing artillery, yesterday evening attacked and captured Pailung, a hundred miles south-west of Harbin.—Reuter.

March on Mukden.

Shanghai, Mar. 17. A determined attempt to wrest Mukden from the hands of the Japanese is indicated in Chinese press despatches, which state that a large force of "volunteers" is massing, preparatory to an attack on the city, and add that the Japanese have declared martial law at Mukden and have mounted guns at the city gates and other strategic points.

It is further stated that 100,000 volunteers divided into three columns are preparing to march on Mukden. At the volunteers are gathering they are tearing down the new Manchukuo emblems.

The volunteers are carrying banners inscribed "Down with the Manchukuo," "Down with the Japanese."—Reuter.

Other Events.

Harbin, Mar. 17. According to a Japanese report, 200 anti-Manchukuo troops who attacked the Japanese garrison at Ninguta were completely annihilated.

The new Government has issued a decree prohibiting the export of flour, wheat and kumquat.

Five judges and three public prosecutors have resigned on the ground that they do not desire to serve under the new Government.—Reuter.

No Recognition.

New York, Mar. 17. Adverting to Hsieh Kai-shek's bid for American recognition, the New York Times correspondent at Washington recalls that the Nine Power Treaty guaranteed the territorial and administrative integrity of China, and declares that the United States has always regarded Manchuria as part of China.

It is evident that should any signatory to the treaty show a disposition to recognize the new government in Manchuria, the United States would consider vigorously. This would include Japan, which has announced specifically its intentions in the matter, nor have any other signatories indicated that they are considering recognition of the new state.—Reuter.

YING WAH GIRLS SCHOOL.

ANNUAL DISTRIBUTION OF
CERTIFICATES.

STEADY WORK.

"There have been no outstanding events to mark the year 1931, but throughout the year, in all classes, steady faithful work has been done," said Miss D. Hutchinson, the Headmistress of Ying Wah Girls' School, in her annual report at the distribution of certificates, which took place yesterday evening.

Accommodation at the Hop Yat Hall, the venue of the function, was taxed by the large number of parents and friends present. Dr. Wong San-yin, M.Sc., Ph.D., gave away the certificates. The Rev. Cheung Chuk-ling being in the chair.

Others present included Dr. R. M. Gibson (Senior Missionary in Hongkong of the London Missionary Society), and Mr. Lau Yan-pak (Inspector of Vernacular Schools).

Presenting her annual report, Miss Hutchinson said:

Scholars' Success. The average number of scholars in attendance during 1931 was 324 (against 256 in the previous year) and the average daily attendance 306—just over 94%.

Two classes prepared for the examinations held by the University in November. From the senior class, one girl entered for the Matriculation examination and was successful, and I am glad to report that she has now entered upon an Arts course at the University of Hongkong. Three girls entered for the Senior Local Examination. All were successful, while two of the three reached Matriculation standard.

Our Junior class did not achieve the same measure of success. Out of twelve who entered, five girls were successful, one of whom gained a distinction in Chinese.

The School branch of the Y.W.C.A. has continued to keep the ideal of Christian service before the senior girls. Once again in the summer holidays, they took part in the summer schools for poor children which are carried on under the auspices of the Y.M. and Y.W.C.A. This time 11 girls undertook to be responsible for carrying on one of these schools. At Christmas they acted as a link between West and East. We have received a parcel of dolls and toys from Sunday Schools in England and these they distributed to the children whom they had taught in the summer school.

The Old Girls' Society has had a successful year. Two meetings were held—one in January and one in July. At the summer meeting, school was open for inspection by its former scholars in the morning, after which a united gathering of past and present girls was held in the School Hall. The present girls contributed a short musical programme by way of welcome to their "older sisters", and an address was given by Rev. Cheung Chuk-ling. I very much hope that we may from time to time have more united meetings of this kind, for it is good for both past and present scholars to be reminded in this way that they are all part of one school fellowship.

The united meeting was followed by lunch and a social hour, at which it was reported that a membership campaign carried on during the Spring months had almost trebled the membership.

In October, news reached us of the death in England of Miss Davies. Miss Davies went home on retirement in September 1930, after giving almost forty-two years of service to educational work in this Colony, thirty of which were devoted to the founding and developing of the Ying Wah Girls' School. To one and all the news brought the sense of the loss of a true friend, whose interest in all that concerned the good of this school, neither time nor distance could have diminished.

On November 28 the present girls, together with a large number of old girls and friends, joined in a special service to the memory of Miss Davies. As we were reminded of the long years of tireless and unselfish service that Miss Davies had given to this school and of what she had done for three generations of schoolgirls, we were filled with a deep sense of gratitude and we felt that once again we were being challenged to live worthily of the inheritance that is ours.

THREE KINDS OF LOVE.

waste—see? Here it is June already, and we got to go to Denver, and get the guy there to fix us up on an act, and we got to rehearse it and get to Chicago in time for a decent booking in the fall. Now, like I was saying. All right. Why can't we take the bus and skip—most any night now? You could tell your folks you was spending the night with your chum, and we'd beat it. I can't keep on sticking around here—see? Come on, now, Frankie? You ain't going to leave me cold—not after everything you've said and all, are you? Come on, now. Give me your promise, and we'll seal it, like you say, with a sweet little kiss."

"Quite a little one," stipulated Mary-Frances.

Earl said, "Gripes!" when the little kiss was over, but he went on to say, "Sometimes it kind of seems to me that you just face it all out in talking, Frankie."

"Earl!" said Mary-Frances. "Heart's dearest!"

"Sure, I know. I'm glad you're that type and all—see? But what about the promise?"

"I'll give you my answer on Tuesday night."

"Nix," hon. Now. Now or never that's a good rule. You got to make up your mind, and that's all there is to it—see? I got to beat it out here by the middle of the week at the latest."

"I have to think it over so more," said Mary-Frances. "I just have to."

"How about to-morrow night, Monday, then?"

"Well—Mary-Frances acceded. "Ermintrude, I have promised to give him my answer this very night!"

"To-morrow night, then, beloved."

"Yes or no, then, to-morrow night. No kidding? No fooling?"

"I promise," said Mary-Frances.

Cecily said, "You know, Ann, I do feel sort of better," and pushed away the bowl, emptied now of its hot, stimulating milk, and nibbled at the last crumbs of toast.

"Not," she explained, "that I'm happier—but, well, just spunkier, maybe. You have been good for me, angel."

Ann asked, "I, or the hot milk after you'd eaten nothing since yesterday?" and added, "Sister's girl," and picked up the bowl and other dishes piled with the other dishes piled in the sink.

"I'll put the kettle on," Cecily sighed. "I suppose we'll have to do those ding dishes to-night, Mary-Frances might have washed them for once. It wouldn't have hurt her."

"It is on and boiling. I'll wash them; you dry them. Mary-Frances would have, if you'd told her. She just doesn't think."

"Well, we thought. We had to, when we were her age."

"I know. But we were different."

"Yes, but why were we? I think we are different yet. And what is the matter with us, anyway? Other girls grow up and have jobs, and boy friends, and good times, and they get engaged, and then they get married and have babies and keep on being happy. Look at us. Quarrelling with our deans and everything. Just a mess."

"Well—Don't pour that water over them, honey, it's too hot. Never mind, it was only a jelly."

YING WAH GIRLS SCHOOL.

School's Thanks.

In closing, I wish to thank those who, throughout the school year, have helped us.

We are indebted to members of the London Missionary Society for help given in many ways: to the Staff of the Alice Memorial and Affiliated Hospitals for assistance readily given in times of sickness or emergency; to the Hop Yat Church for granting us the use of this Hall this evening; to Rev. Cheung Chuk-ling for help given on many occasions and for his presence with us as Chairman at this meeting.

And, in the name of the school, I would extend a warm welcome to Dr. Wong San-yin and thank him for coming to present the certificates and to speak to the girls this evening.

After the certificates had been distributed, Dr. Wong and the Rev. Cheung Chuk-ling spoke to the gathering in Chinese.

Musical items formed the second half of the programme, including a play produced and acted by the pupils of the Middle School.

SHANGHAI RELIEF.

TUNG WAH HOSPITAL TO MAKE NEW APPEAL.

With a view to raising further sums for the Shanghai relief fund Mr. Chan Lim-pak, the Chairman of the Tung Wah Hospital, gave an address in Chinese over the radio last evening and described how the money collected from Hongkong residents and firms had been distributed in Shanghai.

It is understood that so far $325,000 has been received by the Tung Wah Hospital, of which $250,000 has been remitted to the Cantonese Club or Kwong Shiu King Sor in Shanghai for distribution among Chinese in distress in the devastated areas.

About $14,000 has been received during the last two days alone, including $1,500 from the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce and $10,000 from the Wah On Importers' Association.

What was I saying? Oh, yes. We've had worries and responsibilities all along. Sometimes I think Phil was right when he said that we didn't have any definite point that we could place and begin to hope.

"Hoped Shoot, Ann—that's what we do best. That's what we've always done—wait around and hollously hope. You told me yourself, half an hour ago, not to hope. It is the best bit of advice I've had. Look at Grand and Rosalie—hoping. Two summer homes, and—"

"Poor dears," said Ann. (To be Continued.)

COUNCIL MEETING.

DUTY ON MEDICINAL SPIRITS.

A new resolution setting out a table of duty payable in connexion with the assessment of spirituous liquors, other than intoxicating liquors, which called for the re-ascension of another resolution on the point passed in October, was approved at a meeting of the Legislative Council held yesterday. The Colonial Treasurer stated the effect would be that the duty on such medicinal preparations as tinctures and liquid extracts would be less.

Mr. T. H. King took the Oath of Allegiance and his seat on the Council as Acting Inspector General of Police, in place of the Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe, C.M.G., who has gone on leave.

Kai Tak Aerodrome.

Speaking on a motion, "That this Council approves of the expenditure of a further sum of $20,000 on the Kai Tak aerodrome hangar during the financial year 1932, which sum shall be met from a future loan and shall meanwhile be charged as an advance from the surplus balances of the Colony," the Colonial Secretary said: "With the consent of the Council I wish to postpone the motion standing in my name. It has been found necessary to amend the figure and certain details are not yet ready."

This course was agreed to and the motion was postponed.

Liquors Assessment.

The Colonial Treasurer moved the following resolution: "Resolved under section 35 of the Liquors Ordinance, 1931, that the Resolution of the 22nd day of October, 1931, assessing the duty to be paid on spirituous liquors other than intoxicating liquors be rescinded and that duty be assessed and paid on such spirituous liquors in accordance with the following table: On perfumed spirits and toilet preparations other than spirituous liquors classified by the Superintendent as Medicated Spirits, $10.00."

On Medicated Spirits classified by the Superintendent as such:

- (a) containing more than 10% by weight of pure alcohol but less than 21%, $2.50.
- (b) containing 21% by weight of pure alcohol but less than 38%, $5.00.
- (c) containing 38% by weight of pure alcohol but less than 65%, $7.50.
- (d) containing not less than 65% by weight of pure alcohol, $10.00.

Provided that the dollars and decimals thereof stated in the Table shall be conventional dollars reckoned as the equivalent of one shilling and eightpence sterling; and consequently to arrive at the actual amount payable in Hong Kong currency the conventional dollar stated in the Table shall be multiplied by 20 and divided by a figure settled by the Colonial Treasurer from time to time representing the average opening selling rates for the previous month of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation for demand drafts on London and until so settled the figure shall be 17.24.

DENMARK DISARMS.

ALL-ROUND REDUCTIONS BEING MADE.

Copenhagen, Mar. 17. Voluntary disarmament will be largely undertaken by Denmark under the Government proposals now before Parliament whereby the existing capital ships will not be renewed, some coast defences will be abolished, the army reduced from three divisions to two, the artillery from 45 to 33 batteries, the air force strength limited to 100 machines, and all military bands except that of the Guards abolished.—Reuter's Special Service.

senting the average opening selling rates for the previous month of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation for demand drafts on London and until so settled the figure shall be 17.24.

Less Duty.

He said:—The object of this resolution is to assess duty on medicated spirits by the alcoholic content and not, as heretofore, charging as though the contents were 100 per cent. alcohol. The amounts of alcohol shown in the table may appear arbitrary but they represent the equivalent in alcohol by weight to the standards of the B.P. which are given in volume. The effect will be that the duty on medicinal preparations such as tinctures, liquid extracts, etc., will be somewhat less.

Opium Law Consolidation.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the resolution was carried. The Attorney General moved the first reading of "A Bill to amend and consolidate the law relating to opium." He said:—This Bill consolidates the Ordinances on this subject and amends therein in the manner indicated in the table of correspondence which Honourable Members will find on pages 19 and 20 of the Bill. The principal amendment is the new clause 14 which is to prevent the sale or purchase by minors of any prepared opium. This clause has been inserted in consequence of the Bangkok Opium Conference.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

Reformatory Schools Bill.

On the motion of the Attorney General, seconded by the Colonial Secretary, "a bill to provide for and regulate Industrial and Reformatory Schools" was read a second and third time and passed.

Adjournment.

His Excellency the Governor:—Council stands adjourned until April 7.

Finance Committee.

At a meeting of the Finance Committee which followed, votes totalling $47,987 were approved.

POSSIBLE ROLE FOR THE ARMY.

Shanghai, Mar. 17. In view of reports from Japan that the Selyukal Ministry, despite its huge majority in the Diet, is proving incapable of dealing effectively with the economic, politico-social crisis, and that a strong political clique is manoeuvring to form a strong "National" Government, falling which the Army may be compelled to take temporary control for the purpose of curbing a violent reactionary movement which appears daily to be gathering momentum, and which threatens to precipitate serious disorders possibly leading to a Fascist uprising, considerable importance is attached to a farwell message from General Shirakawa to the Japanese troops who are going home, which concludes: "Conditions in this day of day, and the responsibility of the Imperial troops in face of these circumstances is mounting. Even upon your return home you—who are going back by order of the Government—have to train yourselves sufficiently to be ready to rally to the call immediately when things should happen. Only thus can you answer to his Majesty's reliance on you."—Reuter.

The Reactionaries.

Tokyo, Mar. 17. Although loyal to the Throne, the reactionary wave appears to be taking definitely anti-capitalist trend, the outcome of a number of causes, including loss of faith in party politics, economic distress (especially in rural districts), and an intense but frequently distorted sense of patriotism and nationalism, which was recently excited by foreign criticism of Japan's action in China.

While the Army appears sympathetic to some extent and the Zaigokum Jinkai Reservists Association, with branches throughout the country, is apparently amongst the prime movers, there is reason to believe that the military faction recognises the necessity for checking the movement before it gets control.—Reuter.

Japan's Costs.

Tokyo, Mar. 17. Supplementary estimates to cover the expenditure in Shanghai and Manchuria will be presented at a special session of the Diet opening to-morrow. The total is Yen 67,500,000, of which Yen 7,500,000 is to cover the balance of the current fiscal year, the remainder being appropriated for the fiscal year starting on April 1.

A Bill authorising the Government to raise a loan of Yen 67,500,000 will be presented to the Diet, which will also be asked for post facto approval of sums already appropriated through Imperial ordinances.—Reuter.

"THE GREAT LAW."

INTERESTING LECTURE BY
MRS. M. P. TALATI.

At a meeting of the Theosophical Society yesterday evening Mrs. M. P. Talati delivered an interesting address to a large gathering, taking as her subject "The Great Law." She said in part:

I am going to speak to you about the great law, which governs the universe, and its principal aspects, which are mentioned in different religions. Tennyson says:

That God who always lives,
and loves,
One God, one Law, one Element,
And one far off Divine Event
To which the whole creation moves.

The universal Spirit of Life, whom we call God, is the fundamental Reality, the essence of all. He vivifies the whole universe, and manifests Himself in various forms. His Infinite Mind has planned the universe, and rules it in a right harmonious way.

There is a saying that order is heaven's first law. The regular movements of the solar system, the gradual growth of the vegetable, animal, and human kingdoms. The right orderly coming and going of seasons and all other orderly working of nature, give most convincing evidence that there is a perfect universal mind working behind all these phenomena; and that the universe is fashioned according to a certain plan and is ruled according to certain fixed laws.

The cosmic law, which keeps right order, and preserves harmony and peace in the whole universe, is called the law of Asha, or Ashom in Zoroastrian religion.

Asha is the fundamental Truth, the mainspring of all manifestations and all evolution. It is the third aspect of God. His Holy Spirit. And is identical to Satya in the Hindu religion.

Asha is the truth, which upholds the throne of God Himself.

The path of Asha is called "Asha Patha" which means the "Right Path." It is the only one path walking along which one can reach his spiritual Father, or attain to his ultimate goal of happiness.

The Vedic Religion.

In ancient Vedic religion, this cosmic law is known as Rita, and has exactly the same signification as Asha or Artā in Avasta (Zoroastrian Scripture).

The word Dharma, which has replaced Rita in Hindu religion also signifies Righteousness, though its ordinary meaning is duty.

Sometimes people think that there is no justice in nature, and good and bad fortune comes by luck or chance, because they see good people apparently suffering and unrighteous people enjoying their lives. Again they see some seemingly unkind phenomena of nature, such as earthquakes, storms, floods, and other earthly calamities. The reason is that we judge all things according to a few apparent events and circumstances of one's life, but there are always some remote or hidden causes which we cannot trace back or understand easily.

If there were no justice in nature nobody's life would be safe for a moment.

The Laws of Nature.

It is only when one violates the laws of nature that one physically, or mentally, suffers. Everywhere in nature we see mercy, sympathy, co-operation, and the method of removal of, or resistance towards, what is unnatural or abnormal.

Good fortune is called "Asha," in the Zoroastrian religion, because it is the result of following Asha, or righteousness.

If there were no justice in nature, our lives would be full of fear and uncertainty. It is only when we put implicit faith in the righteousness of the Universal Creator that we can confidently believe and say "All is Well," the most righteous power rules the universe, we need not fear anything, nothing can prevent us from going on and attaining to our right goal, the real happiness.

The law of Karma is one of the principal aspects of the universal law, which is based upon perfect righteousness. Karma means action. "As you sow so shall you reap," is the natural law mentioned in all great religions, and it signifies that if we direct our activities of life in a right way, we get a good reward, but if we do wrong we suffer.

To be sorry for having done wrong, after having understood it, and to go back to the right path, that is to give up doing wrong, and to do the right henceforth is the surest way for atoning wrong actions.

Though the physical effects of wrong actions can not be altogether prevented, they can be atoned by the sublimation of good actions in future, or by transmitting them into useful lessons. It is possible that one sad experience might be an instrument for saving ourselves and others from hundreds of such experiences in future.

Even the worst criminal can be changed into a saint, if he repents and changes his mode of life. That depends upon what one chooses to be, and chooses to do.

In fact it is not any outside judge or authority who judges our private actions. It is our own spiritual self that makes laws for guiding our own life, and judges our actions most accurately, and gives a decree, or imposes punishment upon us for our own betterment. Nobody knows us better than our own spiritual self. We cannot deceive our spiritual self which is one with the universal self, whose very nature is absolute righteousness. This is why Sages have said "Man Know Thyself."

The Hindu Beliefs.

In the Hindu language Karma means actions, and Karma also means destiny, because destiny is the result of our past actions. Many Hindus believe that not only the condition of our whole life but all incidents of our life are predetermined. They believe the record of destiny is unchangeable; and so whatsoever befalls them, they take it as an unchangeable predestined destiny of their life. Such an attitude of mind though it keeps them passive and calm, does not encourage them to endeavour to improve their conditions.

Our life here is affected by various activities of innumerable people, directly or indirectly. It is influenced by our home, and societies, our education, and circumstances, and many other things; so our present condition of life either happy or unhappy is not the result of only our individual karma or past actions, but is also the result of the actions of innumerable individuals that are living now and have lived before.

The satisfaction of doing our duty as well as possible is the greatest satisfaction we can have, no matter in what condition we are.

The law of evolution is the most prominent law of nature, and of our life, and has been occupying the minds of the great thinkers for solving the problems that are related to it. Ancient Hindu Sages explained it in a certain way which is known as the theory of the law of reincarnation. According to ancient Hindu belief our soul is an ego, a particular ray of the Monad which remains after one's death in the invisible world, and after the disintegration of its etheric, emotional and mental bodies, reincarnates into new bodies that may be at for its evolution, and thus evolves individually, until it gains its perfection.

The object of our life is to assert its infinite power, and to express the truth and beauty of its nature which is unity, justice, love, harmony, and peace, and the goal of life is perfect happiness derived from perfect expression of life.

"BIG NAZI PLOT."

POLICE UNRAVE PLAN TO CAPTURE BERLIN.

Berlin, Mar. 17.

The latest of the periodical alarms over secret Nazi activities has stimulated the Prussian authorities to swift, sharp action, following discovery of an alleged plan to surround and capture Berlin on election day, "as soon as Hitler has assumed power."

Elaborate machinery timed the revolt to begin when the Nazi leaders all over the country received a telegram stating "Grandmother dead."

The police at present are raiding Nazi establishments all over Prussia.—Reuter.

PICTURESQUE AND STRIKING SCENES AT THE OLYMPIC WINTER GAMES.

The free-for-all type of speed skating that brought controversy into the Winter Olympics at Lake Placid, N.Y., is shown in this picture of the first heat of the 10,000 meter race. Foreign skaters, accustomed to racing against time, protested that contestants were crowded together on turns, as pictured here.

A PARADE OF ATHLETES of seventeen nations raised the curtain of the Third Olympic Winter Games at Lake Placid, N.Y. Here you see the American contestants, white-coated and white-hatted entering the stadium.

A FIGHTING FINISH gave the Canadian hockey team victory over the United States in the thrilling match, pictured here, which was an opening event of the Third Olympic Winter Games. The Canadians tied the score with a minute to go and fought on to win, 2 to 1, in extra time.

FLASHING OVER THE ICE ahead of the world's fastest speed skaters, Jack Shea, Dartmouth College, is shown winning the 500-metre race which opened the Olympic winter games at Lake Placid. Shea finished six yards in front of Bernt Evensen, Norway's famous defending titlist.

A famous "musher" and a famous dog team were acclaimed as victors in the 25-mile Adirondack Trail race when this picture was taken. Emile St. Godard, of Le Pas, Manitoba, is shown at the finish of a difficult contest that had caused the collapse of the dogs of two other teams.

THREE KINDS OF LOVE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Ann and Cecily Fenwick have for years supported themselves, their younger sister, Mary-Frances, and their grandparents, known as "Uncle" and "Aunt" because of this financial responsibility. Ann, who is 28, is unable to marry Phil Fenwick, young lawyer to whom she has been engaged for eight years. Cecily, 22, loves Harry McKel, an engineer, but when he proposes she refuses to name their wedding date for the same reason. Mary-Frances, 15, and still in school, strikes up an acquaintance with Earl De Armount, vaudeville actor, and meets him secretly. He tries to persuade her to become his stage partner.

Ann and Phil quarrel when she hears Letty King, who works in Phil's office building, address him with endearments. Then Cecily learns Harry has left town without telling her. She is much disturbed. De Armount continues to urge Mary-Frances to join his vaudeville act.

CHAPTER XXXIII

"I can't help it," said Mary-Frances. "My family would never in this world think of letting me."

"Your family? Cripes!" said Earl. "Say, listen, hon. I'd be the last man of earth to influence any girl, let alone you, against her parents' wishes or anything—see? But you ain't got a happy home life nor anything. And you're crazy about me; and I'm crazy about you—see? Now, look at it from that point of view, and leave me tell you this: A girl with your looks and shape could sure go far—travel, see the world—"

"And come home," dreamed Mary-Frances, "and be rich and famous, and bring presents to everybody, and all would be forgiven, and—"

"Well, yeah, sure. Now, after I got that letter from But yesterday, I got to thinking—see? I got to take his bus back—see? Well, what I was thinking was, why couldn't you and I just skip out, most any night now, in the bus together. No parting, nor keeping in touch through letters, like you said—"

"I didn't say 'keeping in touch through letters,'"

"Well, whether it was. We'd be in Denver in sight of a week, and—"

"Elope?" stammered Mary-Frances. She had of course, planned for six bridesmaids, and Ermintrude as maid of honor. But—an elopement! Real romany. "Have you heard about Mary-Frances Fenwick and that handsome famous actor?" It is—"Well—er—hon—I've been meaning for quite a while to tell you about that. As a matter of fact, I'm not fixed to get married

Whether or not Mary-Frances saw, she did not immediately say, and no material for thought. She might have paused to doubt that Earl's father had ever made such a silly will—fathers rarely do so. She might have been considering Earl's age in connexion with the possibility, at least, that he had been married and divorced and could not remarry before a year had elapsed. Or, granting her trustfulness, or credulity, or both, and without accusing her of cupidily, she might have been speculating as to the extent of the fortune to which Earl was so soon to fall heir. Her answer finally spoken, may or may not be indicative of the thought processes that contrived it.

"We could be engaged," she said. "And you could go on to Denver, and I could go to the girls' camp, like I'd planned. It is going to be better than ever this year, and Mr. Hill is going to arrange so that Ermintrude and I can have ponies to ride and everything; and I've got my knicker suit already, and there's going to be a swimming tournament, and Clay said I could borrow her swimming suit, it is so much prettier than mine. We'd have a secret engagement, and we could write letters, and I'd dedicate long hours to go off in the woods and think about you. If the girls thought it was queer or anything, Ermintrude could kind of tell them—just hint, you know—that I had a beautiful though kind of sorrowful secret. We'd be faithful all through the years, and—"

"Cripes!" he interposed. "What's the use of all the agony? I'm not much hand at writing letters. Never was. 'Nothing thing, you're overlooking the main issue—see? What about the act? What's going to happen to the act, with you off in that damn—pardon me—camp and me in Denver without a partner or anything? Trouble with you, hon, you got no imagination. We're crazy about one another—see? You being so poetical and pretty and all. How'd I feel thinking about you left alone out here, prey to any evils and temptations that might come along and not a happy home life nor anything? A successful performer, he's got to put his heart into it as well as his legs—see? Or it won't get across. It won't get across."

"You mean," interpreted Mary-Frances, "that if I don't go with you it will ruin your professional career?"

"Hell!" said a sorely overtaxed and perhaps a slightly overwrought Mr. De Armount. "I got no professional career at present, have I?"

"Well," rebuked Mary-Frances, "I must say, Earl—"

"Now, hon, don't get sore. Don't do it. I shouldn't of talked that way. You'll have to excuse me. I just forgot myself. What I mean to say is—well, how I mean is—I need you, Frankie; honest I do." The grown woman was heavy for her pretty young head. Her chin went down instead of up. Intuitively she knew that she had won the gueridon of womankind. "I need you." But the trouble was, though she was aware of its worth and unaware of its dangers, she did not want it. Agenor was not her grandpa.

"It ain't," Earl went on, "that I don't see your point of view and all like that. But I'm a gentleman. If you know anything about me by this time you must know that I'm a gentleman—see? And I give you my word of honor—my holy word of honor—that I'd treat you square, see? Straight, see? And when I mean straight I don't mean maybe. And you won't be much more anxious than I am for the final—that is to say, for the final time to come when we can get married and everything open and above-board—see? Until that time comes, I'm telling you, Frankie—pals, buddies, absolutely. No more and no less, see?"

Miss Elsie Miller (left) and Mrs. Lola Brooks Potter, members, respectively, of the American and Canada speed-skating teams, practicing in the Olympic Stadium.

"Well," demurred Mary-Frances, "I'll think it over again. But I don't much believe I'd better go."

"Think it over—huh? Say, listen, Frankie, if this was any other girl but you I'd think you was stringing me—see? Playing me for a sucker. I know you ain't. I know how pure and sincere and unselfish you are and everything. But, just the same, you've been thinking this matter over for weeks now—see? We haven't got any more time to

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES.

Laurel and Hardy, the highly popular comedy duo who have added more to the gaiety of nations than anybody else, appear in "Beau Hunka" showing on Sunday at the Queen's, their latest feature-length comedy, an outstanding achievement even in their long career of hilarious misadventures.

"Beau Hunka" is a hilarious burlesque on the Foreign Legion. The film has all the thrills and drama of that genre of production—soul-killing discipline, forced marches, harsh officers, the rigours of the desert—sandstorms and marauding natives. Through all this blunder the figures of those inimitable comedians Oliver and Stan, painstakingly trying to do their best and making a hash of everything. It's the most hilarious comedy you have ever seen—the laugh of the year.

"Young As You Feel."

Spectacles are as much a part of Lucien Littlefield's screen characterizations as Charlie Chaplin's shoes and cane are of the King of Pan-tomime.

Whatever the role, Lucien can always be depended upon to appear with a new pair of characters, chosen from his own collection which is said to be the largest owned by any character actor in Hollywood.

His latest featured role is in Will Rogers' new comedy, "Young As You Feel," directed by Frank Borzage, which opens next Sunday at the King's Theatre.

Another distinguished feature of Littlefield's is his baldness. Although but 36 years old, he has been bald for many years as the result of a youthful illness.

"It was a great blow to me at first," Littlefield, remarked recently "when I realized that I would have to confine myself to middle-aged roles, but I decided then that the only way to become an outstanding character man was to achieve perfection in every detail of make-up and characterization. I have succeeded, it has been because of religious adherence to that policy."

"Young As You Feel" is the screen version of George Ade's stage success, "Father and the Boys." Edwin Burke wrote the screen story and dialogue for the picture which is said to afford Will Rogers his most outstanding opportunity for his homely wit and philosophy.

Fifi Dorsay, who played with Rogers in the star's first production, "They Had To See Paris," is again featured with the famous comedian. She enacts the leading feminine role. Also prominently cast are Donald Dillaway, Rosalind Roy, Terrance Ray, Lucile Browne, C. Henry Gordon, Brandon Hurst and many other stage and screen luminaries.

"The Cheat"

She had to choose between honour and a debt of honour—and Triumphed in that emotion-capped hour marked for her Surrender!

And because her triumph wounded the pride of a man who could not buy her love, she was branded a Cheat!

"The Cheat" which is now showing at the King's Theatre, made film history as a silent picture over a decade ago; modernized and with dialogue, it will surprise its sensational success in this new edition.

"The Cheat" is one of the screen's few original classics. Its popularity as a picture with Fanny Ward and Lewitz Hayakawa in the leading roles, soared to such international heights that it dictated the writing of a novel which became a best-seller!

A dozen years have failed to match the inherent drama, the tremendous climax of the original Hector Turnbull story. All of its old power has been kept in the adaptation by Harry Hervey, plus much that is new!

The Talullah Bankhead of real life, and the Talullah Bankhead of "The Cheat" have much in common; both crave excitement, either will gamble with all stakes at command for adventure or fortune!

Five overwhelming odds, the real Talullah sought London and fame a few seasons ago. She won!

Her screen counterpart gambles for the sheer thrill of gambling, and finds herself in a series of situations of terrific dramatic significance!

Madly in love with one man, she finds herself promised to another!

Because she breaks a hateful bargain, she is branded!

And to have the man she loves from sharing that shame, she bares her "mark" to the eyes of a mocking world!

It's absorbing, tense, dramatic, "stirring" New Type of Entertainment. Once again Douglas Fairbanks has created a new type of screen entertainment. Doug brought imaginary adventure into the realm of the screen in "Robin Hood," "The Sign of the Cross" and "Three Musketeers." It was imagination on a grand scale, rich in spectacle, thrilling in exploits, captivating in interest. In his new film at the Central Theatre, to-morrow, "Around the World in 80 Minutes," with Douglas Fairbanks, the Doug of old brings all that olden glamour of romance and adventure into the field of reality. It is an account of Fairbanks' travels with three companions to seek thrills and excitement in foreign lands.

To compare this picture with any previous record of travels would not be logical. For while it contains all the vivid reality of journey to strange lands, it is told in typical, Fairbanksian style.

Even in its reality there is illusion and magic, there are heroics and thrills, there is lavish spectacle. But above all there is humour of a type that transforms the bizarre scenes and Arabian Nights colour of the Orient into sardonic laughter. In editing his old Fairbanks had the collaboration of Robert Sherwood, whose keen wit is known to the public through his magazine essays and stage comedies.

HOTEL COMPANY'S PROJECTS.

better business experienced by that Company in Peking, which I ventured to foreshadow from the Chair last year. It will doubtless prove of interest to shareholders to learn that the Grand Hotel des Wagons-Lits, Ltd.—in which concern your Company is a holding Company to the extent of 95% of the issued capital thereof—was enabled during the financial period ending 30th June, 1931, not only to retire completely through its own resources the Debenture issue amounting to $231,000, but was also in a position to effect a distribution of 10% on its ordinary capital. Furthermore, the financial position, at the aforementioned date was such that, apart from being freed of all debt, a reserve had been built up of the equivalent of 50% of the paid up capital and of such reserve 33-1/3rd per cent, via- via the capital of the Company is invested in first class securities.

Reduced Expenditure.

Returning to the Profit & Loss Account, the sum of $24,215.30, credited in respect of "Premium on Shares", was realised from the sales on the open market—your Board directed to be made—of certain shares out of the Company's last two issues of Capital which had not been taken up by those holders of old shares entitled to apply for them.

Diverting your attention to the contra side of the Profit & Loss Account, I would comment upon the item—"Rent, Rates, Taxes & Licences"—$167,635.86. Comparison of this figure with the like item in last year's accounts reveals a reduced expenditure this year of some $40,441. This reduction is accounted for by the fact that last year's figures included a charge for rental in respect of the Company's tenancy of the Majestic Hotel, Shanghai, during the first quarter of that year.

The net charge for Mortgage and Bank Interest is, for the period under review, $145,000 lower than the commitment under that heading during the preceding year. The incidence of transfer from Shanghai during the year of the sale proceeds of the Majestic Hotel Property which stood to the Company's credit there—funds to which I made reference at the last annual meeting and the receipt of some $2,000,000 in respect of the New Issue of Shares made on the 1st July last, contributed mainly to this considerable saving in interest.

"Loss on Exchange."

I would here make reference to the item of $30,712.27 "Loss on Exchange" borne by last year's Profit & Loss Account. At the Annual General Meeting held in April, 1930, Shareholders, in dealing with appropriations of profit made in respect of the financial year 1929, adopted the Board's recommendation that $150,000 out of the balance at credit of Profit and Loss Account be transferred to an "Exchange Fluctuation Account" with a view to effecting provision for losses on exchange involved in making remittances from Shanghai to Hongkong, having regard to the fluctuating cross rate between Shanghai Tael and Hongkong Dollars. During the year under review the exchange position between the Northern Port and Hongkong rendered difficult the transfer of funds standing to the credit of the Company in Shanghai. It was deemed advisable, however, to take advantage of opportunities which arose during the year, when the trend of exchange inclined comparatively favourably, to make transfers, as the immediate actual saving in interest payments effected by the consequential reduction of our indebtedness to the Bank in Hongkong out-weighed the Book loss such transfers involved.

Transference of approximately 38 lakhs of dollars from Shanghai to Hongkong was made during the last financial year. The book loss involved on these transactions absorbed the reserve of $150,000 and necessitated, in addition, that a further $30,712.27 be borne out of the year's working. As a large portion of the aforementioned funds were not remitted until towards the end of 1931 the saving in Bank Interest charges in Hongkong, resultant upon these transfers, will not be wholly reflected in the Company's Accounts until the figures for the year 1932 are dealt with.

Commission and Depreciation.

With regard to the item of $61,127.07 appearing as a charge for Commissions, as on comparison with figures appearing under heading in past years, this item may appear heavy, I would state, in explanation, that a re-adjustment of the basis of remuneration of a large number of the Company's staff is accountable for this. During the year it was found expedient to effect an alteration to the basis of salary payments to Managers and heads of departments in the Company's various establishments. Under the amended arrangements the remuneration paid comprises the smaller basic salary to the employee, but is augmented by a large percentage by way of commission on the working results shown by respective departments. Although the combined charges in the Company's Accounts in respect of such payments to the personnel involved shows no material increase, the apportionment as between "salary" and "commission" reveals a much heavier charge under the latter heading. It is proposed in future accounts to charge the whole of such remuneration against the General Working Accounts and confine the Profit and Loss Account item of "Commissions" solely to administrative payments which may occur under this heading.

You will note that the past year's accounts disclose the provision of adequate depreciation, before computation of the figure of profits before you for allocation, and I would point out that, in addition, a considerable part of the work effected in maintaining and modernizing the Company's assets has been borne out of revenue. You will observe that the Profit and Loss Account includes expenditure amounting to $137,572.22 for the year in relation to this.

Further, out of the balance standing to the credit of Repairs and Renewals Account at the beginning of the year, $48,797.23 has been absorbed in relation to the cost of part of the improvements effected to the ground and first floor areas of the Hongkong Hotel not capitalised.

In reviewing the assets side of the balance sheet, there would appear to be no outstanding feature upon which to comment, for the application of the depreciation provisions accounts, in most instances, for differences disclosed when comparing respective figures of assets with those appearing in last year's accounts, with one exception, i.e., the item "Buildings", which this year is recorded at a sum of $150,000 higher than appeared last year. This increase represents mainly the expenditure on the improvements carried out to the Hongkong Hotel Building in reconstructing the ground floor and the first floor areas.

Popular Lounge.

Whilst on this subject, I can report that the completion of this work, which brought into productive operation a hitherto dead area and fulfilled the long apparent necessity of improving the grill room, restaurant and lounge facilities of the Hongkong Hotel, produced an immediate increase in business, sufficiently gratifying in volume to permit an optimistic outlook with regard to maintaining, out of the earnings produced from the reconstructed property, an adequate return upon the expenditure made in respect of such work.

With regard to the liabilities side of the balance sheet, you will observe that the authorised capital of

FRIDAY, MARCH 18, 1932.

THE TARIFF QUESTION.

Mr. Lloyd George envisages the National Government remaining in office for a period of four years, during which time, it is to be presumed, its tariff policy will be extended rather than contracted. In the meantime, the former Liberal Premier is prepared to lead the anti-tariff section of his party in a fight for the restoration of Free Trade. What impression will be made on the country is a matter for speculation. Much will depend, we imagine, on the effects of the tariff on living costs. Mr. Lloyd George is naturally angry with those Liberals who have made possible the breach with the country's traditional fiscal policy. He has grounds for being so, in view of the probability that every endeavour will be made by the Government to retain tariffs permanently.

As we read the position, the only mandate which the Government had for a tariff was one for a merely emergency measure, designed to rectify the adverse balance of trade and payments. It is, of course, to be admitted that the Conservatives, who predominate in the Government, wanted a tariff long before the emergency. The emergency gave them their chance of getting it. They now appear to have no intention of letting it slip. The Government decisions represent a "two-decker," or rather a "three-decker" tariff in view of the provision for special discriminating duties. This is a permanency, and not merely as a means of rectifying the balance of trade. There is the general, or almost general, tariff for revenue, levied at a flat rate. This revenue tariff, it is to be noted, is totally different from the proposal sponsored some time back by Mr. J. M. Keynes, the noted economist. Mr. Keynes' proposal was put forward mainly as a means of offsetting the over-valuation of sterling consequent on the return to the gold standard. But Britain is no longer on the gold standard, so that argument has gone. Moreover, Mr. Keynes, recognising the danger of the proposal to export trade, proposed to combine the revenue tariff with a corresponding bounty on exports. Mr. Neville

Chamberlain provides for drawbacks, it is true, but not in respect of the ten per cent; only of the higher duties levied on selected articles. How, therefore, he can argue, as he has done, that a revenue tariff levied on most of the raw and semi-finished materials of industry is likely to stimulate exports, it is difficult to see.

There are many other aspects of the matter which could be gone into, but it will suffice if we put forward a very sane view which has been expressed on this tariff problem. Admitting that something was needed over and above the departure from the gold standard and the restrictions which existed on imports, the plea is advanced that any measure adopted should have been strictly temporary, and all semblance of a bargaining tariff should have been carefully avoided. Secondly, there should have been no general tariff applicable to raw or semi-finished materials vital to British industry. Thirdly, it would have been better to proceed farther on the lines of the Abnormal Importations Act, by means of almost prohibitive duties on a narrow range of articles, than to impose protection over a wide field; and it would have been far wiser, in certain cases at least, to restrict imports by a licensing system similar to that of the Dyestuffs Act than by the imposition of duties.

Those Scrawling Signatures.

Every time father becomes critical of his son's handwriting as displayed in his latest school composition, perhaps he will do well to consider what kind of signature he himself attached during the afternoon to his pile of outgoing letters. If father's signature is at all like the average pen trucks, the son need not feel greatly ashamed. Probably son's handwriting does not exhibit such a gorgeous assortment of angles and curves as father's, but it is doubtless more printlike, more restful to the eye. The increased momentum of the business day, the necessity for signing letters in job lots, has played havoc with present-day script, declare teachers of penmanship. The copperplate dignity and legibility that characterized the correspondence of a former generation is now studied under a glass case, along with the feathered pen and the bowl of blotting sand. Our jiggling chirography is but another striking example of the modern demand for fast work. No wonder army regulations insist that all official correspondence must have the typewritten name of the writer in close proximity to the inked signature, so that no time will be wasted in deciphering scrawling penmanship. Indeed, this system might well be adopted in many civilian organisations. It is fortunate that the typewriter and telephone have come to the aid of the busy toiler. If he were compelled to drive a pen many hours a day, recipients of his letters would probably require a board of high-salaried puzzle experts to interpret their meaning. As it is, many a majestic signature needs the swift attention of the well-known pruning knife.

DEATH OF MR. A. McCALLUM.

RAILWAY OFFICIAL PASSES AWAY.

It is with much regret that we have to chronicle the death of Mr. Archibald McCallum, Permanent Way Inspector of the Kowloon-Canton Railway, which took place at the Kowloon Hospital late last night.

The deceased, who was born near Dundee and was only 38 years of age, came to the Colony in August, 1924, as second-class overseer in the Public Works Department, which post he held until April 1926, when he was transferred to the Railway as acting Permanent Way Inspector, being promoted to the substantive post in August of the same year.

He was admitted to hospital on Saturday, suffering from pneumonia, and despite every medical attention he passed away last night.

The late Mr. McCallum saw service during the war with the Royal Engineers. Although he was keenly interested in sport, he took no active part in any games in the Colony, but was a member of the Kowloon Football Club and the Engineers' Institute. He was not married.

Of a genial disposition, he made numerous friends, who will deeply regret his passing. The funeral takes place this evening, passing the Monument at 5 p.m.

Y. San Co. also of returning from banishment. Detective Sergeant D. Fitcher, said the defendant was a gang of three shop-lifters. One of them would go into the premises and pretend to make purchases whilst the other two would commit the thefts. His Worship described the defendant as a kleptomane, remarking that he was afraid the man was a hopeless case.

BAD MANNERS.

Cult of Stage and Screen.

By S. R. LITTLEWOOD.

NOT ALL those of us who have regularly to represent the public in the theatre and cinema have agreed with Mr. Gilbert Chesterton's recent pronouncement about the descent "from Olympus." If Homer sang alright, the gods of Greece had a lower standard of humour than any permitted by the Lord Chamberlain or by Mr. Shortt. But about the descent from a level of good taste and good manners of which we in England had only a few years ago every reason to be proud no doubt can exist. There is prevalent just now a cult of stupidity, vulgarity, and bad manners for their own sake—even in the highest class of comedy—which does urgently need purging by an enlightened public opinion.

The old notion that the stage is there to set a good example in manners has, of course, long disappeared. Gone is the tradition by which it was expected to suggest, if it did not fulfil, a romantic ideal of courtesy, of loyalty, of grace. Our comedy has forfeited at once respect for age and regard for innocence. No longer does a grande dame of the type represented so memorably by the late Rose Leclercq rule in a court where young people approached each other with chivalrous reserve.

Some of those old St. James's comedies, for instance, which many still remember gratefully and vividly—how impossible, if not laughable, they would seem now! When the late George Alexander greeted Miss Julia Neilson, in Sir Arthur Pinero's pleasant play, with "Time has flown high above your head, Princess," he was speaking a different language, moving in a different world, from ours. Even Sir Gerald du Maurier, our present mirror of good breeding, would be constrained to give his old acquaintance an audible slap upon her shoulders, saying, "Five years older and you look every minute of it, my dear!"—or words to some such candid effect.

It may be argued, of course, that life is no longer a minute; that a modern heroine has no time to receive homage with her train twisted into a noel in front of her. It may be held that the conduct of an ostrich-fan, the perfect pose upon a Louis Quinze settee, simply do not matter in comparison with the urgency of current problems and passions. Only lately I saw the leading lady in a West End theatre sit down in front of the audience with her toes visibly turned in. I need not give the name of the distinguished culprit, but her performance was almost universally praised.

For all this there is something to be said. Times change and manners with them. The leisurely and self-conscious development of the old school may have given place to something better in the eager sincerity, the courage, and comradeship, which the youth of our period does at its best supply. No one need take umbrage at a faithful reflection of life as it is—of changes, for example, in domestic ritual. Need we blame children for calling their parents by their Christian names—especially if the parents like it—or for refusing to be either patronised or bored?

But the vogue of mere vulgarity and indelicacy now current is a very different matter. It does not bear any genuine relation to social truth. There are some three or four words now in constant use on the West End stage which no clean-minded host would allow to be used at his dinner-table, and with which no respectable newspaper has as yet defiled its columns. The bringing in of these has nothing to do with art at all. It is simply a "publicity stunt"—enjoyed all too readily by the stupider sort of theatre patrons, who get what is described as a "new kick" out of a hitherto forbidden phrase thrown over the footlights.

To me nothing is more painful than to hear the shout of apparent mass approval with which a first-night audience occasionally welcomes some "bold" allusion, which not one of the applauders would individually make or tolerate in his or her home. If the public like these things how helpless their ambassador! Happily, the so-called "old English" vocabulary of nasty words sanctioned by a "broad-minded" censor is now becoming exhausted. It is possible that the always-existent demand for novelty may thus cancel itself.

So, too, with the "undressing act," which have come to be regarded as essential to a modern comedy of bad manners. They also are not concerned with actual social conduct. In Commander Kimmins's "When Parents Sleep"—to take one example—a Colonial Governor's wife takes off her dress in the drawing-room so as to confer with her lover at greater ease in her underclothing. This scene has been hailed with delight by large sections of the public. But it is ridiculous to pretend that the wives of Colonial Governors are really in the habit of disrobing in this way. And if the language used represents that of a ward-room in his Majesty's Navy, one can only be sorry for it.

The reason behind it all is simply that the success of "high comedy" has ceased to depend upon the comparatively small class whose manners it is supposed to reflect. In order to exist at all the West End theatre has to depend upon hosts of people who know nothing about the manners of this class, and have to be attracted by shocks, surprises, and thrills of one sort or another. Hence words and scenes which can only attract through the rumour of naughtiness. Hence also the parade of mechanical spectacles—now somewhat outmoded. The wonder is, in these circumstances, that now and again a play of merit—like "Journey's End" or "The Barretts of Wimpole Street"—does appeal and survive them.

In this fact and in the persistent encouragement of true art, lies the hope that we shall create a new comedy of manners, reflecting the new generation at its best and as it really is. Who knows what new graces and splendours, of character, which are there all the time, would not then be revealed?

The same is true in an even larger measure of the cinema, for which in England we are only partially responsible, save in an unfortunate and belated imitation of America's mistakes. Here as things are, "the tail wags the dog" logically and inevitably. The gangster-film, with its gutter-bred gunman, living in luxury and pursuing criminal adventures to a heroic end, and the films that reveal in crude horror and sensual allurements, are the chief natural and definitely "traded" to a half-educated public, who seem sometimes to have no power to appreciate anything better. The higher-class patrons of the key-cinemas in the big towns are more publicly—pawns in the game of getting at the masses on both sides of the Atlantic.

Yet even here the heaven is working. A good, clean, beautiful film does get its response now and again, whatever its language. It is possible that from the point of view of convenience, the passing of the censorship into the Lord Chamberlain's control would modify the present chaos. It might tend to raise the standard of the talk-film to that of the theatre—such as it is. But first, last, and always the real censorship lies in the public mind, so often and vastly disappointing, yet never without its germ of good.

The steam launch Cormorant and a junk which was being towed by the steam launch Kwong Sin came into collision in the harbour at noon yesterday. The junk was being towed from Kowloon to Hongkong and the Cormorant was steaming from west to east. Damage to the junk, which was insured, was estimated at $400.

HOTEL COMPANY'S PROJECTS.

the Company, $10,000,000, now stands completely insured.

Loans secured by Mortgage, which, at the 31st December last, amounted to $2,099,046.17, have been reduced to the lowest level experienced by the Company during the past twelve years.

The Repairs and Renewals Account, as I have previously pointed out, suffered depletion during the year to the extent of $48,797.23 and your approval is sought to replenish this account out of last year's profit so as to bring again the credit balance thereof to $100,000.

Bus Services.

I am again in a position to comment upon continued popularity of the bus services operated by the Company. The additional patronage extended to such services during the year have produced a satisfactory increase in revenue from the two major routes of approximately (10%) ten per cent. over last year's figures. Comparing the year 1931 with the year 1930, over 730,000 additional passengers were carried on all routes last year on a reduced mileage of 12,000 miles, such reduction in mileage being attributable to the utilization of larger type buses over routes during the rush hours. It is an interesting fact that, since the inception of the Queen's Road route in the Autumn of 1928, some 13½ million passengers have been carried over that route and since January 1928, 6 million passengers over the University route. The figures for the year under review total over 7½ million passengers for all routes.

In spite of the increased revenue, however, you will readily comprehend that the enhanced cost of the operation consequent upon the depreciation value of the local currency prevailing during the major portion of the year, coupled with the high prices ruling for gasoline and the Government Taxation imposed thereon, rendered it difficult to produce a profit on working, having regard to the fact that no increase in fares was sought. Successful exploitation by the Company of all possible avenues for effecting economies in operation during the year has enabled this side of the Company's activities to contribute a profit to the general Working Account for 1931 which, in the circumstances, can be considered highly satisfactory. A reduction in gasoline prices, since the beginning of this year, combined with a reduction applicable to the cost of tyres and other equipment, renders more favourable the operating prospects of the current year.

A Satisfactory Experiment.

As foreshadowed last year, serious consideration has been given to the utilization of the Diesel type engine in the Company's vehicles. From the progress made in experimental work during the year a decision resulted to convert one of our buses from petrol to oil fuel with a Crossley diesel type engine. As may have been observed from recent reports in the local Press, this vehicle was inspected by the police last month and passed all tests satisfactorily. Since that date the converted vehicle has been in regular service and has functioned most satisfactorily. In the circumstances, steps are now being taken to effect similar conversion to the other vehicles which, on completion, should bring about a very considerable saving in fuel costs, a further factor tending to increase prospects with regard to the future operation of this Department.

With regard to the sum of $232,997.11 out of the balance of Profit & Loss Account, which your Directors recommend be carried forward to the New Account, as this figure may appear to the minds of some Shareholders to be unduly high, I would say that, at the time your Directors' report and recommendations were formulated, the situation at Shanghai appeared sufficiently uncertain and grave as to prompt a certain degree of apprehension with regard to the prospects of our two establishments in that port for the current year. The desirability appeared indicated of conserving resources against the possible detrimental influences on operation, a lengthy continuance of the disturbed conditions might promote.

Shanghai War Risks.

At the time of the first clash in the Northern Port, your Board deemed it advisable to effect War Risk Insurance covering the Shanghai properties, and this was effected in respect of the month of February at a cost, for both the Astor House and Palace Hotels, of some $35,000. During the earlier term of the disturbed times, the situation, more particularly in view of the proximity of the Astor House to the most seriously affected area, in your Board's opinion, fully warranted the precautionary insurance measure undertaken. As later, however, the venue of the more dangerous clashes became further removed from the International Settlement, it was decided not to renew the insurance cover, and same was permitted to lapse as at the end of February.

Increase of Capital.

There do not appear to be further matters arising from a review of the accounts upon which I can usefully comment, but before submitting to you the usual formal proposal thereon, I will interpolate reference to the purposes for which the further meetings to be held at the conclusion of this meeting have been convened.

With regard to the proposed increase in the authorised capital of the Company from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, should the resolution in that respect, to be later submitted to you, be duly passed, it is proposed to offer 200,000 of the new shares at par to existing shareholders at the ratio of one new share to every five old shares held, such new shares to be taken up by the 30th June, 1932.

As I previously mentioned, the Company's mortgage indebtedness stands at a figure just over two million dollars. The capital which will accrue to the Company from the proposed new issue will, therefore, bring this figure of indebtedness down to a comparatively negligible quantity.

Peak Hotel Reconstruction.

In recommending the increase of Capital proposed and the New Issue of Shares, your Board have in mind the desirability of placing the Company in a position to undertake the finance involved in the necessary reconstruction and development of certain of its properties without recourse to secured borrowing.

The reconstruction of the Peak Hotel, a matter brought up by a shareholder at the last annual meeting, is under consideration. In this connection I may add that it is highly improbable that a complete scheme of reconstruction will be undertaken at this juncture, having regard to the fact that this would necessitate a complete evacuation of the existing building involving a total loss of revenue covering a period estimated conservatively at two years, whilst it is highly improbable—incorporating the essentials of an up-to-date Hotel and entailing the heavy capital outlay attaching to such a project—would attract the volume of patronage and degree of spending power, in what is essentially a residential area, necessary in order to make the venture a success financially; rather is your Board inclined to the view that improvements can be effected to the existing establishment as opportunity permits with a resulting degree of modernization commensurate with the extremely reasonable rates charged—the latter factor being the prime attraction of that Hotel.

Happy Valley Garage.

Consideration must shortly be given, however, to a scheme for the extension and development of the Happy Valley Garage property, as the facilities there, suffer increasing restriction in view of the continued improved business experience in the transportation department.

Further requirements in connection with the Company's properties in Shanghai must not be lost sight of. The Astor House and Palace Hotels there continue to produce an adequate return upon the Company's investment in those properties, but consideration must sooner or later be devoted to the reconstruction of one or both of these establishments. Your Board's faith in the high values attaching to both of the properties in question continues to be justified notwithstanding the disturbed conditions in the Northern port, and I think it well to mention, in view of the various rumours current from time to time with regard to this Company disposing of its Shanghai interests, that a firm offer to purchase the Astor House and Palace Hotels and contents for £1,000,000 was refused by the Board during last year.

Alternate Directors.

Turning to the second Resolution to be placed before you at a subsequent meeting this morning, which is in regard to the alterations to the Company's Articles of Association and for which your sanction is sought, these amendments, if passed, will effect necessary rectification to situations of inconvenience which have arisen in the past in the conduct of the Company's affairs.

Up to the present time Directors, when leaving the Colony temporarily, either resign from the Board or apply for leave of absence. In consequence, over many periods in the past, the Company's business has perforce had to be controlled by a Board very restricted in membership.

BINOCULAR THEFT FROM CAR.

BULLION BROKER ROBBED.

A pair of binoculars belonging to Mr. A. G. Coppin, bullion broker, was stolen from his car which was parked in Chater Road on February 23 during the annual race meeting, and at the Central Police Court this morning a Chinese was brought before Mr. Wynne Jones on charges of stealing the glasses and of causing damage to the car by cutting the back of the hood.

Detective Sergeant D. Fitches informed his Worship that the car was parked in Chater Road on the third day of the races. It was locked, and the defendant was alleged to have cut the hood. He then inserted his hand and stole the binoculars, which were valued at £150. Enquiries were made and an informant advised the police found the binoculars at a fruit store where they had been sold for $20. At the stall the police also found a blanket which had apparently been stolen from another car, as well as some tools.

In reply to his Worship, Mr. Coppin said it would be necessary to have a new back made for his hood.

The police applied for a week's formal remand for the owners of the blanket and the tools to be traced if possible.

In the circumstances it is deemed essential that steps be taken to alter the Articles of Association in order to provide for the appointment of alternate Directors, but it is considered to be in the best interests of the Company that the right to be vested in a Director of nominating another in his stead during temporary absence be restricted to Directors holding a material stake in the Company. The shares, which the members of your Board at this date hold or represent, total 254,000. Your Board, therefore, considered the power to nominate an Alternate Director should be restricted to those members of the Board who hold not less than 25,000 shares in the at par, a stake in the Company of $250,000. It would appear unnecessary for me to make further comment on the subject of the proposed additions to the Company's Articles, having regard to the fact that, in the best interests of the general body of Shareholders, the merits of the proposed amendment are obviously apparent.

Dividends.

I now formally propose that the Report of the Directors and the account for the financial year ended 31st December, 1931, as presented, be adopted, and that the following appropriations recommended by your Directors, as incorporated in the Balance Sheet, be carried into effect:—To pay a dividend of 60 cents per share on 800,000 "Old" Shares, $480,000; to pay a dividend of 30 cents per share on 200,000 "New" Shares, $60,000; to transfer to Repairs and Renewals Account, $48,797.23; to carry forward to New Account, $232,997.11; and I shall be obliged if a Shareholder will kindly second such proposal, whereupon questions as to the Report and Accounts may be raised.

Congratulations.

Sir Henry Pollock, in seconding the adoption of the report and accounts said:—Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen,—I have much pleasure in seconding the adoption of the report and the statement of accounts, and it is unnecessary for me to say much after the full and informative speech which has just been made by the Chairman. The following three points, in regard to the past year, seem to me to be matters for congratulation. The first is the very satisfactory increase in the balance of our Working Account for 1931 over that for 1930, notwithstanding the very low rate of exchange which prevailed during the greater part of 1931. The second point is the fact that our bus services have notwithstanding a very moderate scale of fares, been run at a profit. The third point is the fact that the "Wagon-Lite" Hotel, in which the Company has an interest of about ninety per cent, has paid off all its debentures and has effected a distribution of ten per cent. on its Ordinary shares.

In Strong Position.

In short, it may safely be asserted that the Company is in a strong cash position, which will be yet further improved by the almost complete elimination of the item for Bank Interest, after the new issue of two million of dollars has been taken up in the middle of this year. It is interesting to hear that the Board received an offer of six and a half million dollars for the Astor House and Palace Hotels during the last year. Personally I am confident that the International Settlement at Shanghai will continue to increase in prosperity, and that it is such a splendid example of the magnificent results which can be achieved by Chinese

BUSY TIMES FOR MINISTERS.

DELEGATES FOR CONFERENCES.

London, Mar. 17.

The Prime Minister announced to-day the provisional list of delegates to the Ottawa and Lausanne Conferences.

He said the Government had to be represented practically simultaneously at three most important conferences this Summer—the Disarmament Conference at Geneva, the Reparations Conference at Lausanne, opening in June, and the Imperial Conference at Ottawa in July.

Any announcement must depend on the claims made upon the services of the ministers during Summer. The delegation for Geneva was known.

The representatives at Ottawa would be the Secretary for the Dominions, Mr. Thomas, the Secretary for Colonies, Sir Philip Cunliffe Liston, the President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Runciman, and the representative of the Ministry of Agriculture.

Subject to Government business considerations, the Lord President of Council, Mr. Baldwin, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Chamberlain and the War Secretary, Lord Hailsham, would also attend.

At Lausanne, the Government would be represented by the Prime Minister Mr. Neville Chamberlain, Sir John Simon and Mr. Runciman.

If advisable, and possible, the services might be utilised of Sir Herbert Samuel, Sir Samuel Hoare or a representative of the Dominion Office.—British Wireless.

and Foreigners together, working in friendly co-operation with one another for the general good.

Mr. Alves' Approval.

Mr. J. M. Alves, in supporting, said:—I am quite in agreement with Sir Henry Pollock in his view as to the increasing prosperity of Shanghai. Considering the restricted area of the International Settlement, and the protection it can afford to its residents in times of trouble, as was fully proved during recent events there, I am sure that many shareholders will join with me in commending the foresight of the Directors in having turned down an offer of six and a half million dollars for our two properties, which are so well situated in the very centre of the business section of Shanghai, and the value of which must undoubtedly increase as time goes on.

I have watched with much gratification the progress of this Company, and if tangible evidence is needed as to its stability one has but to study the figures presented to-day, bearing in mind the difficulties that had to be faced during a long period following the depression of 1925. Speaking for myself, optimistic as I am of the growing importance of Shanghai, I should feel indeed reluctant to entertain any idea of abandoning our establishments there. I would prefer rather to see our properties in the Northern Port—located as they are in such suitable positions to cater for the business in which the Company is engaged—developed along modern lines. I refer particularly to our Astor House site—very close to which as you may probably know a 22-story building is in course of construction. Gentlemen, such a policy, if pursued carefully, will, I am confident, redound with much financial benefit to the Company. With these remarks I beg to associate myself with what Sir Henry has just said.

The motion was unanimously adopted.

Other Business.

On the proposition of Mr. J.F. Wright, seconded by Mr. J. P. Sherry, Mr. W.H. Bolla's appointment to the Directorate was confirmed, and Mr. J. Scott Harston was re-elected to the Board.

Messrs. Percy Smith, Seth and Fleming were re-appointed auditors on the motion of Mr. F. M. Ellis, seconded by Mr. G.H. Potts, this concluding the business.

Resolutions Adopted.

At the extraordinary general meeting which followed, it was proposed by the Chairman, and seconded by Mr. H. Lo that the four resolutions authorising the issue of $5,000,000 of new capital be adopted, and the motion was unanimously carried.

The meeting similarly signified its approval of the resolution for the alteration to the Articles of Association—for the introduction of alternate directors—after it had been proposed by the Chairman and seconded by Mr. N. V. A. Croucher.

WAR DEBTS ISSUE.

Accordingly, the Act in which provision was made for the establishment of credits in favour of the Governments engaged in war with the enemies of the United States began thus:

"For the purpose of more effectually providing for the national security and defence, and for prosecuting the war."

Here are the words in which the Bill was supported by members of Congress in various stages of its passage through the two Houses in the latter part of April, 1917: Senator McCumber (Chairman of the Finance Committee): "It is probably true that more than a quarter of a million men are going down to death, or being wounded or captured, every month during the contest. Therefore, while they are suffering to that extent, we ought to be mighty liberal in the expenditure of money when we take no part in the real battle, which to-day is the battle of the American people."

No Repayment From France. Senator Kenyon: "I want to say this for myself, that I hope one of these loans, if we make it, will never be paid, and that we will never ask that it be paid. We owe more to the Republic of France for what it has done for us than we can ever repay. I never want to see this Government ask France to return the loan we make to her."

Ward off SUDDEN CHILLS

DON'T ignore that sudden chill, sore throat or that persistent cough. Take Peps and benefit from the direct healing action of these famous breathable tablets.

To preserve certain volatile oils which Peps contain, every tablet has to be separately wrapped in silver foil. When dissolved in the mouth, Peps give off soothing and chest-strengthening fumes which are carried with the breath straight to the lungs. Peps quickly allay inflammation and soothe the throat and bronchial tubes and protect all the breathing passages against sudden chills and infection dangers.

For coughs, colds, night-chills, sore throat, bronchitis, etc., Peps are unequalled. GI medicinal dealers everywhere.

Congressman Mann: "I think it is our highest duty in the making of war to give aid to those who are fighting the enemy against whom we have declared war."

Congressman Fordney: "Their (the credits) only purpose is to aid them in the best way possible to fight our battles across the sea without calling upon our men to go there."

Congressman Mondell: "We can (by the credits) effectively and in the immediate future, arm, strengthen and support those who are, since our declaration of war, fighting our battles."

CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES YESTERDAY.

Conditions were not entirely favourable for tennis yesterday after the rain of the past few days, and as a result the standard served up in the full distance of three sets. W. C.

Hung and Chiu Chun-chiu had a narrow victory against the Zimmer-

L. A. Ribeiro qualified for the next round at the expense of F. H. Kwok

ARGYLLS QUALIFY AGAINST THE H.K.F.C.

Playing on the H.K.F.C. ground yesterday, the Argyls defeated the Club in the second round of the Junior Challenge Shield by six clear goals. The Club put up a very weak show, Fogwill in goal receiving little support from the backs.

Clearing from McKenna early in the game, Fogwill was beaten by Christie with a fast cross shot from close range. The Club took up the attack from the centre kick, but Ralston cleared the bar from a pass by Fowler. A miskick by Sloan let in McKenna, and he went on to give Fogwill no chance with a shot from close range.

Owing to the late start there was no interval, the teams crossed over and play continuing.

Fogwill did well to clear several times, but a misunderstanding by the Club defence gave the Argyls their third goal. Fogwill came out, but missed the ball, which travelled on and struck the foot of the post. Loudon running up turned the ball into the net, with Fogwill making desperate attempts to get it away. A centre by Christie was misjudged by Fogwill and Loudon headed into the net.

The Club right could not get going against Yeoman and Henderson. Fowler got through the defence, but was unlucky in handling just as he was about to shoot.

McKenna received on the halfway line and running through the defence gave Fogwill no chance with a fast cross shot.

Later, Fogwill punched a shot from Campbell, and McKenna trapping the ball sent it into the net well out of the goalie's reach. Shortly after this the final whistle sounded with the Argyls winners by six goals to nil. The Argyls will now meet the R.A.F. in the semi-final on Saturday.

IRISH BALL BIG SUCCESS.

MERRY CROWD THROG
PENINSULA HOTEL.

BLARNEY CASTLE.

To the accompaniment of those melodious old airs and the gay wit for which the Emerald Isle is noted, the Irish Community in Hongkong last night celebrated the day of their patron saint, St. Patrick, by a merry ball at the Peninsula Hotel. The second ball since the St. Patrick's Society was formed last year, it was an even more successful function than last year's.

The animated scene inside the Peninsula might have been a place of Old Ireland itself, with its overpowering predominance of shamrock, shillelaghs and shebeens. An energetic decoration committee had set the rooms out in a riot of colour, in which green of course was outstanding. Green bunting draped the columns, the shields of the Irish provinces surmounted the capitals, and harps and shamrocks were slung from the ceiling. There was a welcome on the mat in the shape of a glittering array of electric lights, bidding the merry-makers "Good Night" from the entrance in Salisbury Road, and strings of British and Irish national flags in all rooms made all feel at home.

In the supper room, British, Irish, Scottish, English and Welsh national flags were draped behind the official table and in the middle of the buffet table was a replica of the Treaty Stone at Sarsfield Bridge at Limerick, which is the native city of Col. C. D. Myles, the Society's President.

A similar decoration scheme was carried out in the roof garden, which was the main ball-room. Flags of the Irish Free State, the Union Jack, and Emblems of St. George, St. Andrew and St. David's Societies acted as a reminder to the official dais, and "Erin Go Bragh" was proclaimed in a prominent position. Round the walls were the shield of the Star of the Knights of St. Patrick, and the escutcheons of Ulster, Munster, Leinster and Connaught quartered, together with the arms of the principal cities in Ireland.

Blarney Castle Popular.

At the left of the official dais was the Blarney Castle, which proved such a feature of the initial St. Patrick's Ball. Throughout the night a procession of dancers sought its portals to be conducted to the dance to implant a chaste salutation thereon. Certificates to that effect were presented to all those who did so, primary certificates for those who were having their initial experience, and secondary for those who had gone through the ordeal at the first Ball. A huge shamrock hung from the centre of the ceiling.

Across the annex in the rose room, the decorations were on a similar style with an Irish harp hanging from the ceiling and shield of Irish cities and provinces surmounting the capitals of the green-draped columns.

An enlarged label of Guinness Stout left no doubt as to what lay behind the door labelled "Shillelagh." An array of Irish and English flags here gave the incentive for many toasts—if any encouragement was needed.

Governor Arrives.

His Excellency the Governor and Lady Peel arrived at the Hotel at 9.30 and together with Major Gen. J. W. Sandilands, Lady Kelly, and Capt. A. H. Walker (Commodore) and Mrs. Walker, were received by Col. Myles, Sir Joseph Kemp and Prof. F. A. Redmond. The party arrived in the ball-room at 9.40, and after the National Anthem, the bevy of collectors made their bows and Miss Frances Mahony presented a Faugh-a-Ballagh Shillelagh to His Excellency and a shillelagh to the Governor. The collectors then set the ball rolling again by distributing shamrocks to the guests.

A homely atmosphere pervaded the supper room on the first floor which was laid out on the buffet style. Among the official guests were:

Hon. Mr. W. T. Southern, Hon. Mr. C. G. Alabaster, Hon. Mr. E. R. Hallifax, Hon. Mr. E. Taylor, Hon. Mr. H. T. Greasy, Hon. Sir Shou-son Chow, Hon. Mr. W. E. L. Shenton, Mr. E. Cock, Mr. A. Stevenson, Mrs. Greasy, Mrs. Potter, Mrs. Southern, Mrs. Stevenson, Mrs. Cock, Mrs. Hallifax, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Scott, Harston, Mrs. Davies, Mr. D. Davies.

During the supper Mr. V. Deronevsky's orchestra dispensed a selection of old Irish airs, at the conclusion of which, the through troops back to continue their dancing and merry-making until the early hours.

The Committee of the St. Patrick's Society for 1932 was: Col. C. D. Myles, O.B.E., President; Prof. F. A. Redmond, Vice-President; Hon. Sir J. H. Kemp, C.B.E., Past President; Mr. B. H. C. Hallows, Hon. Treasurer; Mr. G. P. Murphy and Lieut. P. T. Mahony, R. E. Hon. Secretaries; Surg. Commr. S. E. Brown, R.N.

MANCHURIAN UNREST.

MOVEMENT AGAINST MA
CHAN-SHAN.

DISORDERS SPREAD.

Tokyo, Mar. 17.
While the latest press reports declare that Moscow has intimated its readiness to co-operate with the new Manchuria State so far as the Chinese Eastern Railway is concerned, internal disorders among the leaders of the Manchurian Government is already threatening to precipitate a serious crisis.

The local warlords of Heilungkiang province are reported to be instigating the troops to raise against General Ma Chan-shan whom they accuse of seeking personal glory in accepting the position of War Minister, while Tsang Shi-yi is demanding that Hsi Hsi, the former Governor of Kirin, shall resign his post of Finance Minister, claiming that he is unfitted for the position.

Following the recent outbreaks in Tacheli and Manchouli, disturbances are now reported in Pavlov, seventy miles to the north-east of Harbin, and there are indications that the unrest will spread unless Ma Chan-shan resigns.

It is considered significant that General Honjo, who at present is carrying out a tour of inspection in north Manchuria, yesterday visited and conferred with Ma Chan-shan.—Reuter.

Town Captured.

Tokyo, Mar. 17.
A message from Changchun states that a large force of insurgents, possessing artillery, yesterday evening attacked and captured Putuna, a hundred miles south-west of Harbin.—Reuter.

March on Mukden.

Shanghai, Mar. 17.
A determined attempt to wrest Mukden from the hands of the Japanese is indicated in Chinese press despatches, which state that a large force of "volunteers" is massing, preparatory to an attack on the city, and add that the Japanese have declared martial law at Mukden and have mounted guns at the city gates and other strategic points.

It is further stated that 100,000 volunteers divided into three columns are preparing to march on Mukden. As the volunteers are gathering they are tearing down the new Manchukuo emblems.

The volunteers are carrying banners inscribed "Down with the Manchukuo," "Down with the Japanese."—Reuter.

Other Events.

Harbin, Mar. 17.
According to a Japanese report, 200 anti-Manchukuo troops who attacked the Japanese garrison at Ninguta were completely annihilated.

The new Government has issued a decree prohibiting the export of flour, wheat and kumlang.

Five judges and three public prosecutors have resigned on the ground that they do not desire to serve under the new Government.—Reuter.

No Recognition.

New York, Mar. 17.
Advertising to Hsieh Kai-shek's bid for American recognition, the New York Times correspondent at Washington recalls that the Nine Power Treaty guaranteed the territorial and administrative integrity of China, and declares that the United States has always regarded Manchuria as part of China.

It is evident that should any signatory to the treaty show a disposition to recognise the new government in Manchuria, the United States would consider vigorously drawing its attention to the treaty. This would include Japan, which has not announced specifically its intentions in the matter, nor have any other signatories indicated that they are considering recognition of the new state.—Reuter.

YING WAH GIRLS SCHOOL.

ANNUAL DISTRIBUTION OF
CERTIFICATES.

STEADY WORK.

"There have been no outstanding events to mark the year 1931, but throughout the year, in all classes, steady faithful work has been done," said Miss D. Hutchinson, the Headmistress of Ying Wah Girls' School, in her annual report at the distribution of certificates, which took place yesterday evening.

Accommodation at the Hop Yat Hall, the venue of the function, was taxed by the large number of parents and friends present. Dr. Wong San-yin, M.S.C., Ph.D., gave away the certificates, the Rev. Cheung Chuk-ling being in the chair.

Others present included Dr. R. M. Gibson (Senior Missionary in Hongkong of the London Missionary Society), and Mr. Lou Yan-pauk (Inspector of Vernacular Schools).

Presenting her annual report, Miss Hutchinson said:

Scholars' Success.

The average number of scholars in attendance during 1931 was 324 (against 290 in the previous year) and the average daily attendance 306—just over 94%.

Two classes prepared for the examinations held by the University in November. From the senior class, one girl entered for the Matriculation examination and was successful, and I am glad to report that she has now entered upon an Arts course at the University of Hongkong. Three girls entered for the Senior Local Examination. All were successful, while two of the three reached Matriculation standard.

Our Junior class did not achieve the same measure of success. Out of twelve who entered, five girls were successful, one of whom gained a distinction in Chinese.

The School branch of the Y.W.C.A. has continued to keep the ideal of Christian service before the senior girls. Once again in the summer holidays, they took part in the summer schools for poor children which are carried on under the auspices of the Y.M. and Y.W.C.A. This time 11 girls undertook to be responsible for carrying on one of these schools. At Christmas they acted as a link between West and East. We had received a parcel of dolls and toys from Sunday Schools in England and these they distributed to the children whom they had taught in the summer school.

The Old Girls' Society has had a successful year. Two meetings were held—one in January and one in July. At the summer meeting, school was open for inspection by its former scholars in the morning, after which a united gathering of past and present girls was held in the School Hall. The present girls contributed a short musical programme by way of welcome to their "older sisters," and an address was given by Rev. Cheung Chuk-ling. I very much hope that we may from time to time have more united meetings of this kind, for it is good for both past and present girls to be reminded in this way that they are all part of one school fellowship.

The united meeting was followed by lunch and a social hour, at which it was reported that a membership campaign carried on during the Spring months had almost trebled the membership.

In October, news reached us of the death in England of Miss Davies. Miss Davies went home on retirement in September 1930, after giving almost forty-two years of service to educational work in this Colony, thirty of which were devoted to the founding and developing of the Ying Wah Girls' School. To one and all the news brought the sense of the loss of a true friend, whose interest in all that concerned the good of this school, neither time nor distance could have diminished.

On November 28 the present girls, together with a large number of old girls and friends, joined in a special service to the memory of Miss Davies. As we were reminded of the long years of tireless and unselfish service that Miss Davies had given to this school and of what she had done for three generations of schoolgirls, we were filled with a deep sense of gratitude and we felt that once again we were being challenged to live worthily of the inheritance that is ours.

THREE KINDS OF LOVE.

waste—see? Here it is June already, and we got to go to Denver, and get the guy there to fix us up on an act, and we got to rehearse it and get to Chicago in time for a decent booking in the fall. Now, like I was saying, we're crazy, about one another. All right. Why can't we take the bus and skip—most any night now? You could tell your folks you was spending the night with your chum, and we'd beat it. I can't keep on sticking around here—see? Come on, now, Frankie? You ain't going to leave me cold—not after everything you've said and all, are you? Come on, now. Give me your promise, and we'll seal it, like you say, with a sweet little kiss.

"Quite a little one," attituded Mary-Frances.

Earl said, "Cripes!" when the little kiss was over, but he went on to say, "Sometimes it kind of seems to me that you just take it all out in talking, Frankie."

"Earl!" said Mary-Frances. "Heart's dearest!"

"Sure, I know. I'm glad you're that type and all—see? But what about the promise?"

"I'll give you my answer on Tuesday night."

"Nix, hon. Now. Now or never—that's a good rule. You got to make up your mind, and that's all there is to it—see? I got to beat it out here by the middle of the week at the latest."

"I have to think it over some more," said Mary-Frances. "I just have to."

"How about to-morrow night, Monday, then?"

"Well," Mary-Frances conceded ("Ermintrude, I have promised to give him my answer this very night")—"to-morrow night, then, beloved."

"Yes or no, then, to-morrow night. No kidding? No fooling?"

"I promise," said Mary-Frances.

Cecily said, "You know, Ann, I do feel sort of better," and pushed away the bowl, emptied now of its hot, stimulating milk, and nibbled at the last crumbs of toast.

"Not," she explained, "that I'm happier—but, well, just spunkier, maybe. You have been good for me, angel!"

Ann asked, "I, or the hot milk after you'd eaten nothing since yesterday?" and added, "Sister's girl," and picked up the bowl and plate to wash them along with the other dishes piled in the sink.

"I'll put the kettle on," Cecily sighed. "I suppose we'll have to do those ding dishes to-night. Mary-Frances might have washed them for once. It wouldn't have hurt her."

"It is on and boiling. I'll wash them; you dry them. Mary-Frances would have, if you'd told her. She just doesn't think."

"Well, we thought. We had to, when we were her age."

"I know. But we were different."

"Yes, but why were we? I think we are different yet. And what is the matter with us, anyway? Other girls grow up and have jobs, and boy friends, and good times, and are happy. After a while they get engaged, and then they get married and have babies and keep on being happy. Look at us. Quarrelling with our beaus and everything. Just a mess."

"Well—Don't pour that water over them, honey, it's too hot. Never mind, it was only a jelly."

YING WAH GIRLS SCHOOL.

School's Thanks.

In closing, I wish to thank those who, throughout the school year, have helped us.

We are indebted to members of the London Missionary Society for help given in many ways: to the Staff of the Alice Memorial and Affiliated Hospitals for assistance readily given in times of sickness or emergency; to the Hop Yat Church for granting us the use of this Hall this evening; to Rev. Cheung Chuk-ling for help given on many occasions and for his presence with us as Chairman at this meeting.

And, in the name of the school, I would extend a warm welcome to Dr. Wong San-yin and thank him for coming to present the certificates and to speak to the girls this evening.

After the certificates had been distributed, Dr. Wong and the Rev. Cheung Chuk-ling spoke to the gathering in Chinese.

Musical items formed the second half of the programme, including a play produced and acted by the pupils of the Middle School.

SHANGHAI RELIEF.

TUNG WAH HOSPITAL TO MAKE NEW APPEAL.

With a view to raising further sums for the Shanghai relief fund Mr. Chan Lim-pak, the Chairman of the Tung Wah Hospital, gave an address in Chinese over the radio last evening and described how the money collected from Hongkong residents and firms had been distributed in Shanghai.

It is understood that $2,200,000 has been received by the Tung Wah Hospital, of which $250,000 has been remitted to the Cantonese Club or Kwong Shih King Sor in Shanghai for distribution among Chinese in distress in the devastated areas.

About $14,000 has been received during the last two days alone, including $1,500 from the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce and $10,000 from the 'Wah On Importers' Association.

glass. What was I saying? Oh, yes. We've had worries and responsibilities all along. Sometimes I think Phil was right when he said that we didn't have any definite point that we could place and begin to hope—"

"Hoped! Shoot, Ann—that's what we do best. That's what we've always done—wait around and hallowly hope. You told me yourself, half an hour ago, not to hope. It is the best bit of advice I've had. Look at Grand and Rosalie—hoping. Two summer homes, and—"

duced from three divisions to two,

TRANS-ASIAN PARTY.

AWAITING ORDERS FROM FRANCE.The members of the Trans-Asian Motor Expedition whose leader, Mon. G. M. Haardt, died under tragic circumstances at Ropulse Bay on Wednesday, are still awaiting instructions from Paris regarding their future movements. The body of M.
Haardt is being embalmed in Hongkong, preparatory to sending it to France for burial.Many persons called at the French Consulate yesterday and subscribed their names in a book that will be sent later to the mother of the late M. Haardt.
Among the names placed on the list were noticed Mr. and Mrs. W.
T. Southorn, Mr. Douglas Jenkins,
Consul General for the United States, M. Henry Vanderstruete,
Consul General for Belgium, Rev.
Daniel J. Finn, S.J., Lecturer in Geography at the University of Hongkong and Rev. Edward
Bourke, S.J., of the Holy Spirit
School. A cable was also received yesterday morning by M. Waddington from the Viceroy of India and Lady Willingdon, expressing their deepest sympathy at the sad loss of the leader of the Expedition.His Excellency the Governor and Lady Peel have sent a long message of sympathy to the members of the Expedition.GROWING UNREST
IN JAPAN.POSSIBLE ROLE FOR THE ARMY.Shanghai, Mar. 17.
In view of reports from Japan that the Selyukai Ministry, despite its huge majority in the Diet, is proving incapable of dealing effectively with the economic, politico-social crisis, and that a strong political clique is manoeuvring to form a strong "National" Government, falling which the Army may be compelled to take temporary control for the purpose of curbing a violent reactionary movement which appears daily to be gathering momentum, and which threatens to precipitate serious disorders possibly leading to a Fascist uprising, considerable importance is attached to a farewell message from General Shirakawa to the Japanese troops who are going home, which concludes:
"Conditions at home and abroad increase in difficulty day by day, and the responsibility of the Imperial troops in face of these circumstances is mounting. Even upon your return home you—who are going back by order of the Government—have to train yourselves sufficiently to be ready to reply to the call immediately when things should happen. Only thus can you answer to his Majesty's reliance on you."—Reuter.

The Reactionaries.

Tokyo, Mar. 17.
Although loyal to the Throne, the reactionary wave appears to be taking definitely anti-capitalist trend, the outcome of a number of causes, including loss of faith in party politics, economic distress (especially in rural districts), and an intense but frequently distorted sense of patriotism and nationalism, which was recently excited by foreign criticism of Japan's action in China.While the Army appears sympathetic to social, extent and the Zuigun Junsei Reservists Association, with branches throughout the country, is apparently amongst the prime movers, there is reason to believe that the military faction recognise the necessity for checking the movement before it gets control.—Reuter.
